The Georgias And the Techs

History to the contrary notwithstanding, all roads today will lead to Athens, not Rome, as the Techs and the Georgias have a go at one another in their annual football Iliad of Achilles and Agamemnon.

It will be a day of wassail and wreckage, of screeching and screaming, of banshees and banalities, of gloating and groaning, of hurrahing and hemlock, of push coming to shove, of welkins ringing, of hills echoing, of going from the sublime to the ridiculous, of sorrowing and rejoicing.

It will be a day when gleeful pneumonia germs and vivacious virus strains will crowd into the stadium, seeking out the drunks who shed coats, thinking it isn't very cold, after all; creeping into the bodies of those who dress for show instead of warmth; settling happily upon those who didn't feel well enough to go to the game but went anyhow.

It will be a day when operators of automobile wrecking companies rub their hands like so many Uriah Heeps and smugly promise the little woman that, maybe after all, she can have that Christmas fur coat and television set.

It will be a day when surgeons sharpen their knives; when operating room nurses put in extra supplies of ether, bandages and thread; when ambulance drivers check their gas and tires; when undertakers make sure the coffin stack is not too depleted.

It will be a day of toil for the State Patrol.

In short, it is the day when the Techs and the Georgias meet in the concrete mixing bowl on the ancient campus of the state university.

The Coaches

It will be rewarding now and then if the interested spectator, who can't follow the belly plays and the pitchouts very well anyhow, will give a little attention to the two coaches.

Mr. Robert Edward Lee Dodd, the tall Tennessean, with the lean, expressionless face of an Andrew Jackson, is not quite as rewarding as is Mr. James Wallace Butts. The headmaster of the Techs walks about, wearing his battered, brown "lucky" hat, and rarely permits any expression of pain or joy to move the muscles of his face. But, in moments of stress, he is worth a look. He looks fraught. He is somewhat reminiscent of a lonely crane wading in the dismal swamps looking for a scarce frog, as he walks up and down in the bog of despair, looking for a break.

Mr. Butts, on the other hand, is almost the Barrymore of the sidelines. His face reflects joy or despair. His muscles leap. If he sits his legs jerk and flip as if some invisible physician were tapping him on the knee with an unseen rubber hammer, testing his reflexes. If he squats he plucks bits of dead grass and chews them. If he walks he is often humped like Atlas, bearing the world on his back. Now and then he may be moved to snatch his hat from his head and slam it to earth. He gives body English on end runs. He leaps with the passes.

The Result

The summoning of substitutes; the whispered instructions; the suffering and joy of the players on the bench—all these are interesting to watch. And, in these days of faking, of pitchouts, the "keep" plays, and the various, fascinating tangents of the belly play, one seldom sees the ball anyhow. One must have something to watch.

As to the outcome of the game, the soothsayers, the able gentlemen with a crystal ball have looked into its murky mists and seen the Techs as winner of the game.

The records, of course, sustain them. And it is folly not to follow the form sheets.

Still, and all, footballs bounce. And men get hurt.

The Techs, in this respect, are close to the edge of adversity. Their best quarterback, Mitchell, had his wishbone cracked well before this happened to the Thanksgiving turkeys. He cannot pass at all, and if he runs he may be worse hurt. If Lawrence Morris, the great center and bulwark of the Techs should be hurt, great damage will be done.

Injuries and a capriciously careening football often make mock of form sheets.

Ike Kibitzes As Writers Dig Divots

By ALBERT RILEY
Constitution Staff Writer

AUGUSTA, Nov. 26—A jovial President of the United States turned the tables on White House newsmen here Friday as he watched them play golf and kidded them about their games.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose own golf game is the subject of frequent speculation among the correspondents, invited the reporters and photographers to play over the famed Augusta National course at the same time he did Friday.

KIBITZES

And although Ike did not play with the newsmen, he came out on the course to kibitz a little as they teed off on the first hole, and later as they came in from the first nine.

In an obviously relaxed holiday mood, the President then took a few practice swings under the tutelage of club professional Ed Dudley and started out over the course himself.

He already had been out for a morning round, trying to improve his score of the day before. But neither his morning nor afternoon score was disclosed as he played with Cliff Roberts, chairman of the board of the Augusta National and other friends.

The newsmen not only were allowed to play the famous course for the first time since Eisenhower has been coming here, but they also were entertained at lunch as the guests of Robert and Elbert Peabody, Augusta member of the exclusive golf club, scene of the annual Masters' Tournament.

NEAR PERFECT DAY

The President, who expects to get in more golf Saturday had a near perfect day for it Friday. The sun was bright, and a cool breeze swept over the course as he played in a tan jacket, gray cap and gray trousers.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed for the first time Friday afternoon that Atlanta's famed citizen and golfing champion and friend of Ike's—Robert T. Jones—was in the presidential dinner party Thanksgiving night.

Before getting in a morning round of golf, Eisenhower worked

Yearly Big Sales Event Smashes All Records

By JIM MONTGOMERY

No doubt about it—Atlanta shoppers broke all previous records Friday, the first day of the city's 17th annual After-Thanksgiving Sale.

Retail executives here agreed unanimously that surging crowds on the opening day of the two-day event—biggest and most spectaclar of its kind in the nation—outnumbered the record high set on the same day last year.

They also agreed that Friday's sales volume would probably be the highest ever, although the exact level won't be known until the day's figures are tabulated Saturday.

Top executives in just about every store spent most of the day helping their clerks and department managers assist the unprecedented number of bargain-hunting Georgians.

Full page of pictures of shopping thousands on Page 12.

Richard H. Rich, president of Rich's, said Friday's crowd was the largest he had ever seen milling through the store for a sustained period from the time the doors opened.

"We had all we could handle last year," he remarked, "but today looked like it might be better."

Rich also pointed out the 1954 Christmas shopping season promises to bring record sales. Business has been improving since August, he said, and we think the trend will continue to rise for the next six to eight months.

"We're very optimistic," he added.

At Davison's, President Charles H. Jagels said Friday's business was breaking all records.

"I've never seen such crowds downtown or in the store," he stated. "We're bound to exceed last year's record. And we can

Holiday Toll 6 as Crossing Crash Is Fatal

A train-automobile collision in Marietta, a one-car wreck near Blackshear and a truck colliding with a tree killed four persons Friday, raising Georgia's Thanksgiving holiday death toll to six.

A white man was reported killed and nine others were injured early Saturday in a two-car collision eight miles west of Athens on Highway 29, in Clarke County, the state patrol said. Identities were not immediately available.

J. C. King, 39, of 371 Rose Lane, Marietta, was fatally injured at noon Friday when the car he was driving was struck by a freight train at the Goss street crossing in Marietta, police reported.

King died two hours later of head injuries in Kennestone Hospital. Police said the car was demolished.

The State Patrol reported Thomas C. Carey, 47, of Cincinnati, Ohio, was killed six miles east of Blackshear when his car blew a tire and turned over about 4:30 p.m. Three others were injured.

Alva Lee Adams, 64, a resident of Chatham County, and Lester Marshall, Negro, his employe, were killed Friday night when the pickup truck in which they were riding just south of Savannah apparently failed to make a curve, skidded 188 feet, then turned sideways and struck a palmetto tree broadside, Chatham County patrolmen said.

The only Thanksgiving Day fatality was Michael Eddy Glenn, 20, a soldier from Douglasville. He was killed in a head-on collision near Douglasville. Five others were injured.

The patrol has estimated that at least 10 persons will die in highway wrecks during the long holiday weekend which began at 5 p.m. Wednesday and ends at 6 a.m. Monday.

Slick Roads Due For Grid Classic

Rain-slicked roads face football fans who will drive to Athens for the Georgia-Georgia Tech classic Saturday, the weatherman predicted.

Occasional rains probably will start before noon and continue through the afternoon, he forecast, with rain definitely in sight for Saturday night.

Sunday will bring cooler temperatures with clearing skies, he predicted.

The mercury is due to rise to 55 Saturday after a low of 36. Sunday will bring an expected low of 36, with a high of 56.

Dynamite, Gas Explode As 3 Flee Cobb Truck

Special to The Constitution

MARIETTA, Nov. 26—A Cobb County Public Works Department truck loaded with dynamite, gasoline and fuel oil exploded Friday afternoon on Sandy Plains road, near the Mountain View School, shattering windows in the school and nearby residences, police said.

Three occupants of the vehicle, a prisoner and two work foremen, noticed smoke and flames in the rear of the truck and abandoned it seconds before the explosion.

Cobb Police Chief E. T. Hunter and Lt. Amos Bates said the truck was loaded with three cases of dynamite, two cases of dynamite caps, drums of gasoline and drums of fuel oil.

The truck was demolished by the blast. Officers said the hood was hurled more than 100 yards and other parts were strewn over a wide area.

Residents in the northern section of Atlanta reported hearing a blast at 2 p.m., the same time as the Marietta explosion.

The explosion occurred approximately 200 yards from the Mountain View School, 10 miles northeast of Marietta.

The truck was transporting the dynamite and other items to a work detail on Sweat Mountain. Travis Elders, a prisoner, who was driving, said he looked in the rear view mirror and noticed smoke and flames in the truck body. He stopped the vehicle. Elders and Lonnie Givens and Shorty McKinney, work foremen, ran approximately 100 yards before the blast occurred. Cause was not determined.

Chiang Says Guns Beat Red Attack

TAIPEH, Formosa, Saturday, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Chinese Nationalists claimed their troops and planes beat off a Communist amphibious assault yesterday on a tiny island 72 miles west of Formosa.

But the possibility of another attempt was seen in reports of Red craft remaining in the general area.

First reports were that the Reds, in five gunboats and swarms of junks, succeeded in landing on tiny Wuchiu in Formosa Strait but were beaten off with many captured.

Last night a Nationalist Defense Ministry communique said the attack was repulsed and the attackers fled toward the mainland. It made no reference to a landing or prisoners.

AMPHIBIOUS ATTACK

The attack on Wuchiu, a mile-long, half-mile-wide island 15 miles off the mainland, was the first amphibious operation by the Reds since they began boasting last summer they would "liberate" Formosa.

Last night's communique gave this terse version of the action:

At 1:06 a.m. yesterday—12:06 p.m. Thursday EST—the five Communist gunboats and many junks converged on Wuchiu from the west, south and north.

About 4 a.m., the attackers were repulsed by the island defenders and the Nationalist air force. There were earlier reports that the actual fighting lasted an hour.

36 BOATS SUNK

Nationalist planes started a search at daylight for the Reds' sea craft. They sank six motorized boats and more than 30 other craft presumably junks.

Reds on the boats and junks fired machine guns at low-flying planes but without success.

The communique said "the situation on Wuchiu is quite good and we have heightened our alertness."

Some official quarters said it was not quite clear whether the Reds actually intended to occupy Wuchiu or merely stage a raid for intelligence purposes.

Nixon Is Sued By Heckler Who Got Gate

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26 (AP)—Vice President Nixon was sued for $150,000 damages today by James Heavey, 29-year-old San Francisco shipyard worker, who claimed Nixon ordered him "assaulted" for heckling during a San Mateo, Calif., political meeting last month.

Heavey was the man who shouted, "Now tell us a dog story, Dick" during the middle of Nixon's nationally televised speech at the San Mateo High School auditorium.

He was later given a tongue-lashing by the vice president and then ejected from the building on Nixon's order to "throw him out."

In his suit filed in superior court today, Heavey charged he was "assaulted and falsely imprisoned by certain individuals acting under the control and supervision of the defendant."

The action asked for $50,000 general damages and $25,000 punitive damages on each count.

Sheppard Defense Rips Blood-Trail Testimony

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 26 (AP)—The defense in the Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard wife-murder trial began tearing at the prosecution's contention today that the killer left a trail of blood as he wandered through the house after bludgeoning Mrs. Marilyn Sheppard to death last July 4.

Cleveland police laboratory expert Henry Dombrowski has testified earlier he found a "trail of blood spots" in the house. Under cross-examination today he admitted some of the stains had tested negatively, explaining that either they were not human blood or that the quantity was too small to react positively.

50 SPOTS

The state brought out earlier that 50 spots were detected on stairways between the basement, main floor and upstairs where the crime occurred. It has pictured Sheppard as wandering about the house in confusion after the bludgeon-killing of his 31-year-old wife, dripping blood from his clothes and the murder weapon.

The murderer was an intruder, Sheppard's lawyers have said, who later attacked the young osteopath when he went to his wife's rescue.

Sixteen photographs showing the stairways with the spots circled in chalk were introduced, including one showing five other spots in the attached garage.

Defense Attorney William J. Corrigan began boring in after Dombrowski finished telling of the "trail of blood" through the house. He brought out that between the time of the murder and July 23, when Dombrowski made his first examinations, there were many police officers in the house.

CHECKED WALK

Dombrowski was quizzed on his examination of the murder room, where he said on direct examination he had found beneath the murder bed "a chip of tooth, a piece of foil, a minute particle of insect and a piece of a match." He said he had checked the walls, ceiling and furniture.

"We did not check for blood spots on the carpet," he said, "because there was obviously so much blood in the room we did not think it worthwhile."

Dombrowski said "some" of the 26 blood spots found on the stairway leading from the second floor to a landing were visible to the naked eye and others were detected by use of spotlights.

Corrigan then asked if Dombrowski knew that Mrs. Sheppard's blood-soaked bedclothes "had been carried loose down the stairs and not in a hamper?" Dombrowski said he did not.

Of the nine blood spots found on the basement floor, Downbrowski said he removed four slivers containing stains. One of these he later determined by the precipitant method to be human blood. The other three, he told Corrigan, were not.

TESTING

Corrigan then queried closely on his method of testing spots by the benzidine method to determine if they were blood, human or otherwise.

Mispronouncing "benzidine" as "benzidrine" — the stimulant—which drew a smile from Dr. Sheppard, Corrigan asked if other things might not react the same as blood to this test. Dombrowski agreed they could.

Dombrowski then recited a list —"carrots, parsley, radishes and orange pulp" — stains of which

British Relay The Protest At 2 Points

By WALTER H. WAGGONER
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—The United States, in an "unusually strong" note, demanded today the release "forthwith" of 13 American citizens sentenced to long jail terms by the Chinese Communists last Tuesday.

The note, relayed by the British, charged that the imprisonment of 11 members of the U.S. armed forces was "a patent violation" of the Korean armistice agreement and that the sentencing of two civilian employes of the Army was "equally reprehensible."

2 COPIES

The United States left no avenue overlooked in filing the protest. One copy was transmitted to the British Foreign Office for delivery to the Chinese Communist charge d'affaires in London and another was sent to the British charge d'affaires in Peiping for delivery to the Chinese Communist authorities there.

The decision to send duplicate notes underscored the difficulty Washington has been having in trying to register a protest with the Peiping regime. It followed more than two days of fruitless efforts by Franklin C. Gowen, U.S. consul general in Geneva, to arrange a meeting with the Chinese Communist representative there.

The language of the protest itself was so vigorous that Lincoln White, State Department press officer, was asked whether the note was "unusually strong."

"Yes, it is," White replied.

SPY CHARGES

The prison terms for the 11 servicemen, captured during the Korean War, ranged from four to 10 years, and for the two civilians, 10 years and life. All were arrested and jailed on charges of being spies. Tuesday night the Defense Department denounced the charges as "utterly false" and the State Department instructed Gowen to make "the strongest possible protest" to the Chinese Communist representative in Geneva.

Today's note again declared that the allegations were "without foundation" and called upon the Peiping regime to "release

Market Jumps $1 to $5, Nearing Records of 1929

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP)—Prices rose $1 to $5 a share today as the stock market pushed closer to its historic peaks of 1929.

Leading the way were oil, steel and railroad shares. Standard Oil (New Jersey) climbed to a new high at $107.62, up $2.75. Bethlehem Steel was up $2.12 at $97. Santa Fe Railway moved ahead $2.37 to $125.12.

Montgomery Ward provided some excitement. It raised its dividend and declared an extra and so many orders came in that trading was suspended. It reopened just before the close at $76, up $3.50.

U.S., Austria Pushing Early Occupation End

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—A treaty ending the occupation of Austria at "an early and fixed date" was the goal set in a communique issued today on the talks between Austrian Chancellor Julius Raab and top U.S. officials.

Efforts by the United States, Britain and France to conclude such a treaty at the Berlin conference last February were blocked by the Russians, who insisted on arrangements to keep Soviet troops in Austria.

Raab, who conferred with President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and other officials during a state visit here this week, was in Miami today on the start of an American tour.

A joint communique issued at the State Department said:

"The prospects for a treaty for Austria were reviewed and it was agreed that both governments would continue with determination to work together for a state treaty which would provide for the withdrawal of all occupation troops from Austria at an early and fixed date."

The communique reported that plans are now under consideration by the U.S. Defense Department to release housing requisitioned for American occupation authorities in Austria.

"The question of claims by American citizens against the Austrian government stemming from the Nazi occupation of Austria was discussed," the communique added, saying: "It was agreed that a prompt and just settlement of these claims should be sought."

Ptl. A. D. Trollinger and R. J. Stephens, summoned to the Wells house, were unable to find the intruder who, apparently entering through an open door, scattered letters around, dislodged flowers from pots and vases and rearranged the china on the kitchen table.

Wells later called the officers, said he had apprehended the culprit himself: A grey squirrel he discovered hiding in a corner.

Fulbright Would Prop Shaky Lands' Economy

Suggests Bolstering Free World Friends Against Communists

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) proposed today that the free world set up "regional finance corporations" to promote economic stability in underdeveloped nations where communism might prove attractive.

Fulbright said a long range economic program is necessary now to replace the emergency aid measures with which the United States has bolstered its Allies since World War II.

He said the Eisenhower administration appears to have taken "belated recognition" of this need after the United States "blackened its reputation in the eyes of the world" by withdrawing from the U.N. technical assistance program.

Fulbright, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and chairman-designate of the Banking Committee in the coming Congress, suggested the regional finance corporations as one means of channeling funds to free nations with shaky economies.

MIDDLE EAST OIL

He said that in the Middle East, for instance, such a group might be able to tap the enormous oil payments now going into the pockets of local leaders and turn them into development programs.

While there might be some American funds in the corporations, Fulbright said, the principal capital would come from the regional members. He said he is opposed to any more "giveaways."

He also said the "keystone" of any international economic program should be lowered tariffs and simplification of custom regulations so other countries can jack up their economies through trade.

It was disclosed earlier this week that Former Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge has been working quietly at the White House for the past two months on plans to overhaul the nation's present foreign economic policy.

The plans are said to be based on the idea that the threat of outright war has diminished and that coming East-West cold war battles will be fought on the economic front.

The United States hopes to work with substandard countries to raise their economic levels and thus mute the appeals of the Communists. This is particularly true of nations, such as India, which have been neutral in the cold war so far.

LATE APPROACH

Fulbright said this approach is "entirely correct" but "unfortunately it is a belated move by the administration." He said "it will take years to dissuade other nations of the notion that we are not interested in their economic development."

While the United States dallied, he said, the Russians moved in and have "taken over our program" in such countries as India.

The regional corporations suggested by Fulbright would be patterned after the newly proposed international finance corporation to operate under the International Bank for reconstruction.

The corporation, which looms as one of the administration's major weapons in the economic struggle ahead, would have more flexibility than the bank in granting loans, not depending on a guarantee of the loan by the individual government.

Merchants Back Ouster Of Yoshida

TOKYO, Saturday, Nov. 27 (AP)—A falling stock market appeared today to have brought a new—and well-bankrolled—force into Japan's political crisis.

Tokyo business leaders were reported working behind the scenes for the resignation of Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida. They were said to favor a Conservative coalition Cabinet headed by Ichiro Hatoyama, longtime Yoshida rival, but including members of Yoshida's Liberal (Conservative) party.

Business leaders are understood to feel this is the only way to stave off dissolution of the Diet and new, costly general elections. Threat of this has pushed the stock market down the past two days.

Under the reported business leader plan, both Yoshida and his Cabinet would quit; Liberals and the new Democratic party, also conservative, would elect Hatoyama Prime Minister; Hatoyama's new Cabinet would include Liberals and Yoshida's deputy prime minister, Taketora Ogata would retain his job.

Hatoyama, a founder of Yoshida's Liberal party, led 121 Conservative anti-Yoshida members of the lower House into the new Democratic party this week and was named its president.

Yoshida's party leaders then recommended that he relinquish his party's presidency to Ogata, keep the premiership, dissolve the Diet before a nonconfidence motion can be taken up, and force new general elections.

Tokyo business leaders, like Tokyo newspapers and many political observers, believe it is only a matter of a short time until Yoshida is out as Premier, one way or another.

John J. Astor Dropped by N.Y. Register

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP)—New York's social register brought out its 1955 edition today with the name of multimillionaire John Jacob Astor missing for the first time since his childhood.

William C. Langley, 71-year-old president of a Wall Street brokerage firm who married singer Jane Pickens last April, also was dropped.

Langley, vacationing at Key West, Fla., promptly fired back that the society blue book was "a personification of bigotry as un-American as communism, outmoded, narrow-minded and a weapon of a limited masked minority."

A spokesman for Langley said the veteran financier had been in the register for about 30 years.

Astor's exclusion apparently was because of his marital difficulties, which included a Mexican divorce from the former Gertrude Gretsch and a subsequent hasty marriage and separation from Dolly Fullman.

French Mass In Algeria; Natives Flee

ALGIERS, Algeria, Nov. 26 (AP)—Loyal Berber tribesmen fled today from the Aures Mountains badlands where French military forces are preparing an all-out offensive against a rebel army.

France has rushed in some 20,000 reinforcements to bolster its 50,000-man force in Algeria since the outlaws rose against the government on Nov. 1.

Authorities said more than 1,200 Moslems have left their mountain tribal settlements to take refuge in "security" zones set up by the French. The French appealed to the tribesmen to evacuate their homes and clear the way for full-scale campaign against the outlaws.

The rebel army is estimated at some 3,000.

1,500 Crackups in 3 Days As Fog-Smog Chokes L.A.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26 (AP)—The sun fought a losing battle today with a dense blanket of fog which cloaked Southern California for the third straight day, virtually paralyzing transportation and causing an estimated 1,500 traffic incidents in the Los Angeles area.

The fog mingled with smog to produce an eye-stinging and throat-searing effect. The Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District asked industrial firms and individuals to stop burning trash until atmosphere conditions improved.

Smog Control Director Gordon Larson declared the smog-fog did not present any menace to health despite its unpleasantness.

Despite his statement, autopsies were conducted on three babies who died yesterday to determine if smog was a factor in their deaths from respiratory ailments. The three-month-old infants died in widely-separated sections of Los Angeles County.

The fog was general from Santa Barbara to San Diego, Calif., a distance of more than 200 miles. It shut down airports close to the coast at Long Beach and Los Angeles, while Lockheed Air Terminal at Burbank was allowing only a few planes to land and take off under restricted conditions.

Most of the traffic incidents were minor but there were two fatalities during the fog and police reported 130 injuries.

Jet Crashes Into Building And 14 Perish

LIEGE, Belgium, Nov. 26 (AP)—At least 14 persons were killed and 10 others were injured when a young American-trained Belgian air force pilot flying a Thunderjet crashed into a building at nearby Bierset Air Base today.

The plane was making a landing when it apparently stalled and smashed into the roof of an officers mess, setting it afire. The flames leaped to an adjoining medical center building. Both structures were destroyed.

The unidentified pilot was making his first flight since returning from the United States where he won his wings, officials said. He was believed killed in the crash.

Some of the dead were young airmen serving their first day in the Belgian air force.

FEAR OF RUSSIA

More Good or Harm In Churchill Remark?

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The question now arises whether Winston Churchill has done himself more good by citing another case of his famous prescience or more harm by emphasizing at this time his long-standing suspicions of Russia.

Churchill has now revealed that the reason he asked Gen. Eisenhower in 1945 to take good care of surrendered German arms was because he feared they might be needed to rearm the Germans against the Russians.

He feared the Red armies, despite all agreements, might continue advancing into Europe after the German surrender. He urged Gen. Montgomery to hurry into Denmark to prevent its occupation by the Eastern Allies, and mentioned the German rearmament idea to him, but not to Eisenhower.

He injected this touch of history into a speech Tuesday night. Thursday's government-supporting and vastly influential London Times took him sharply to task for doing so. "What on earth made him say it? asked the Times. "It will not help to convince the Russians that the Western powers are straightforward in their declarations of peace today, nor, by suggesting that we were ready to use Nazi-indoctrinated troops in 1945, will it help the cause of West German rearmament now."

Political opponents are suggesting that Churchill's suspicious attitude may have heightened Russia's own suspicions of the outside world and so contributed to the cold war.

On this point the record is rather clear. Despite the fact that Allied propaganda agencies were pumping out talk of a brave new world with Russian cooperation, and that President Roosevelt firmly believed in the idea until just before his death, many students of Russian policy were pointing out long before the war's end the direction in which she was headed. Her doctrines, and their manifestation in the Nazi-Soviet pact of 1939, made it plain to those who were willing to see.

Churchill had ample reasons for his fears.

As for revealing them at this time, when so many are hoping against hope that the recent Russian line of sweetness and light represents real change rather than hypocrisy, the results are problematical. The Reds might hold it against the whole Western world, or they might merely ignore it as something that happened 10 years ago, during an earlier Kremlin regime.

At any rate, the West is demonstrating in emphatic fashion its current fear that Russia will keep advancing into Europe, and it is now actually getting around toward German rearmament. Churchill's words can hardly heighten the effect of that, good or bad, on Russian policy.

Soviet Biggies Do Last Rites For Vishinsky

MOSCOW, Nov. 26 (AP)—A big gun boomed three slavos and the great golden clock on the Kremlin's Spassky Tower struck 3:30 p.m. today as Andrei Vishinsky's ashes were placed in the red-brick Kremlin wall with other Communist greats.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov eulogized the dead permanent Soviet delegate to the United Nations as a defender of peace before 10,000 mourners massed in Red Square.

Premier Georgi Malenkov, Communist party First Secretary Nikita Khrushchev and all the other members of the Central Committee of the Communist party acted as pallbearers as Vishinsky's ashes were placed in the Kremlin wall.

United States Charge d'Affaires Walter N. Wamsley Jr. and the entire diplomatic corps assigned to Moscow attended the funeral of the deputy foreign minister.

Vishinsky's body lay in state in the Hall of Columns after it was flown to Moscow from New York, where Vishinsky died of a heart attack last week. Last night the body was cremated and the ashes placed in an urn.

McCarthy's Release Due Sunday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy's lawyer announced today that McCarthy will be there when the Senate reconvenes Monday to resume its debate on whether to censure the Wisconsin Republican.

Attorney Edward Bennett Williams said McCarthy expects to be released from the Naval medical center at nearby Bethesda, Md., some time Sunday.

The senator entered the hospital Nov. 17 for treatment of his right elbow, banged against a glass table top while he was shaking hands with an enthusiastic admirer in Milwaukee.

The Senate called "time out" the next day, not wanting to carry on the censure proceedings without McCarthy present. It voted to recess until Nov. 29, when it was hoped he would be well enough to attend.

A special senate committee has recommended that McCarthy be officially rebuked for alleged contempt of a Senate group which investigated his financial and other affairs in 1952, and for alleged abuse of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker when the officer was a witness before him.

FESTIVE, PRAYERFUL SPIRIT

Clio Townspeople Open a New Bank

CLIO, Ala., Nov. 26 (AP)—In a festive spirit but with prayers the people of Clio opened a new bank today on the site where the town almost went down to ruin nine months ago.

The first depositor was a wealthy widow, Mrs. Vela Mae Reynolds, who lost more than $23,000 when the privately operated Clio Merchants Exchange collapsed with President Royall Reynolds' disappearance March 7.

Mrs. Reynolds, aunt of the former money-handler, opened her account in the new government-insured bank this morning with a deposit of $10,000.

TOOK THE MONEY

Her nephew took all cash in the old Merchants Exchange with him when he left Clio unannounced last winter, bringing near panic in this tiny south Alabama farming town.

An audit after he returned two weeks later showed a shortage of $76,000. Although Reynolds and members of his family promised to make good all but about 10 per cent of the deficit, he was indicted for embezzlement and is awaiting trial.

Floral greetings from fellow bankers in nearby communities and as far away as Atlanta, Brimingham and Montgomery gave a cheerful note to the formal opening of the new bank, capitalized at $52,500.

State Banking Director Joe Williams from Montgomery officially opened the doors at 9 a.m. by cutting ribbons stretched across the front of the building. A line of depositors had formed an hour earlier.

MAYOR IS PRESIDENT

Mayor Dan Easterling, the 30-year-old president of the new bank, and a leader in the negotiations which brought settlement of the affairs of the defunct Merchants Exchange, predicted a solid future for the new depository.

Unlike the old check-cashing agency which offered its customers no security, the bank was chartered under state banking laws and with FDIC insurance.

It opened for business with $35,000 in capital assets, $12,500 surplus and $5,000 in undivided profits.

Hiss Free Today; Future In Question

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 26 (AP)—The big gates of Northwestern Federal Penitentiary will swing open tomorrow for Alger Hiss who faces a future which his chief accuser predicted may be more difficult than his 44 months behind bars.

The 50-year-old "pumpkin papers" spy ring figure will be free for the first time since March, 1951, but Whittaker Chambers, the man who helped most to send him to prison, sees only a hard "ordeal of daily living" ahead for Hiss.

Hiss, once a jewel of the State Department, was sentenced to a five-year term for lying to a federal grand jury when he said he did not turn over secret State Department papers to Chambers, former Communist spy ring courier. Hiss got 16 months off for good behavior.

Justice Department Makes Wise Move

The Department of Justice, retreating from the position taken in its original brief in the school segregation case, late Wednesday made Thanksgiving Day even more meaningful by filing a new brief before the Supreme Court asking the justices to give state and local communities a reasonable time to work out their problems.

Even more meaningful, and helpful to the South, where the most acute and complex problems are, was the recommendation to the Court that specific decrees for ending segregation be left to the district courts and that no fixed deadline, which all areas would be required to observe at the same time, be included in the decision.

This is a victory, not so much for Southerners of both races, who had urged and hoped for just such a decision, but for common sense. It is helpful to note that Attorney General Brownell can change his mind. In his original brief of about two years ago, for example, he recommended a fixed deadline of one year.

While there may be, as charged, a certain political element in the new brief, filed in answer to those recently entered by 10 states and the District of Columbia, there is an even larger element of good sense.

So the Department of Justice brief, filed on Thanksgiving Eve, is a victory for common sense and the American way. The problem finally can be handled on a local basis. This the Department of Justice now admits, and recommends.

It is one more thing for which to be thankful.

A Lost Intellectual Is Freed From Prison

Alger Hiss, the former State Department official who was found guilty of perjury, regains something resembling freedom Saturday.

He will be released from the federal penitentiary in Pennsylvania where he has served three and a half years of a five-year sentence. Good behavior won him the right to serve the remainder of his time outside jail under the supervision of federal probation officers.

Hiss was with President Roosevelt at Yalta and was one of the top organizers of the San Francisco Conference that saw the birth of the United Nations. He was among the most trusted of all State Department aides until the nervous post-war years when all but the most wishful of Washington dreamers began to suspect the intentions of the formerly sacrosanct Russians.

In the investigations of Communists in government that followed this bitter disillusionment, Hiss stumbled and fell. He was convicted for perjuring himself when he denied before a congressional committee that he had turned official secrets over to the Communists.

Communist or not, Hiss is the prototype of the idealistic members of his generation who found their world not to their liking. The Russian system looked good from afar and Red propagandists found them pushovers for the party line.

Whether Hiss was guilty or innocent, naive or cynical, no longer matters. The courts found him guilty of perjury. The public found him guilty of treason; at least by association.

No matter where he goes, no matter how long he lives, Alger Hiss never again will be free.

Welfare Budget Cuts Should Be Reconsidered

The Fulton County budget bureau has announced plans to cut $170,000 off the proposed budget of the welfare department. Under the circumstances, it is in order to ask the bureau to reconsider. After all, the community is growing and its welfare problems grow with it.

Wellborn Ellis, director of the department, points out that there will have to be a considerable elimination of services and cancellation of contracts if the cut goes through. He points out also that the program to extend rehabilitation will have to be abandoned and as a result the increases in cases will amount to about 5 per cent.

The cost of these cases probably will be more than the proposed rehabilitation program would have cost, Mr. Ellis points out, bringing a budget deficit. In short, he says, the department simply could not meet the normal demand upon it.

Cutting the budget in this amount would eliminate the overdue salary increases for welfare employes, eliminate $17,600 in special assistance grants for inmates of old-age homes and rehabilitation services.

While it can be understood that welfare services should be operated with the strictest economy, Fulton County cannot avoid its responsibilities in helping to care for the unfortunate. There are many angles to the welfare problem, not the least of which is the cost of not having adequate machinery to deal with it.

The budget bureau should consider every angle thoroughly before proceeding with the proposed cut.

Tech-Georgia Game Is All-State Affair

Although no national titles are at stake, a bowl bid and a lot of regional prestige await the winner of the Tech-Georgia contest over in Sanford Stadium this afternoon. It will be the traditional all-Georgia spectacle and a capacity crowd will be on hand from the length and breadth of the state.

It was 25 years ago this season that the largest crowd ever to see a football game in the state gathered in Athens for the dedication of Sanford Stadium. Yale University, on which the University of Georgia was modeled early in the last century, consented to come down, for a sort of courtesy call. The call resulted in a bit of a shock as the Bulldogs, led by one "Catfish" Smith, defeated the Ivy League boys, 15-0.

There are no dedication ceremonies today but the two teams and the 46,000 fans will be no less spirited. A Tech-Georgia game brings together the best the state has to offer in teams, spectators and good will.

May the game be clean and may the better team win!

Red China's Insult Is Proof of Her Perfidy

The sentencing by the Red Chinese of 13 American airmen as spies is the most sordid piece of cynicism in a long history of indignities and insults at the hands of this damnable Communist regime. It is aimed at embarrassing the United States in the eyes of Asiatics and is clever propaganda.

Washington should retaliate with whatever means necessary and certainly we cannot accept this indignity without taking the most drastic steps to free these men. It is the most arrogant example of bad faith in international dealings in a long series of Communist violations of all international agreements.

In the past, the United States has gone to war on less provocation. Today, because of the risks involved in an atomic holocaust we shrink from full-scale war. But all other measures short of such retaliation should be undertaken.

We may as well face the fact that we are headed for a showdown in Asia with Communist China. It may be achieved through diplomatic means. But there's no doubt about Chinese designs on all Southeast Asia. An attack on Formosa seems imminent and we are committed to defend Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist stronghold.

This latest action of contempt for the United States and the American people will further solidify American public opinion against any settlement with the Chinese gangster government.

Some People Can Follow The Sun Like the Birds

This is migrant time in Atlanta. Not only for the birds, but also for the restless and unemployed in flight from northern cold to seasonal jobs in Florida.

They move through town by whatever means they can. They arrive in their own cars, via public transportation, and as hitchhikers. Many find Atlanta the end of the road as far as their personal resources are concerned, and add to the burden of the city's Red Feather agencies.

These migrants are the displaced people of our land. They are rootless, unsettled and stateless. They follow the seasons and drift with the tides of employment. From them are recruited many of the delinquents, both adult and juvenile, over which the more stable elements of society show such concern.

These footloose folk are no peculiar problem of the United States. It is estimated that there are at least 100,000,000 of them in the world. They have been set adrift by politics, persecutions, armies and famine. And there are a lot, like our local migrants, who just like to wander, contributing nothing, and taking everything they can from the earnest who stick to their steady jobs, pay their taxes, and when the cold weather comes, envy the rootless and fancy free.

The Cat Scratched Hand That Helped

"Right after your Uncle Cleve had finished telling me about his cow that had fits," my father said, "your Uncle Bill came by to tell me about his cat which had fell in the well.

"He said he was sitting there at his house by the fire the other morning when a couple of little boys who live up the road came running in to tell him there was a cat in his well.

"He said he went out to the well and leaned over the well box and listened and sure enough, he could hear a cat meowing down in the well. He knew he couldn't leave it in there for any length of time, not only for the bad effect it would have on the cat, but also on the well water.

"So he went to the barn where he had one of these old big windlasses people use when they clean out wells, and the jacks to support the windlass, and a long stout rope, and a great big heavy bucket.

"But neither one of the little boys was willing to go down in the well in the bucket to get the cat out. And your Uncle Bill is so big and heavy that if he'd of got in the bucket to let the little boys lower him down, it would of jerked the windlass out of the little boy's hands and he would of fell in the well like a rock.

"So he went up the road to a colored fellow's house and got two big strong colored boys and give them 50 cents apiece to come down there and help him. But neither one of them wanted to go down in the well after the cat, either.

"So your Uncle Bill, he got in the bucket, and they let him down in the well. And he got down to where the water was and he could hear the cat meowing but he couldn't see no sign of a cat. He stayed down in the well about 15 minutes, striking matches and looking for the cat.

"But it was nowhere to be seen, and he begun to believe maybe that the cat was down under the water, but he couldn't see how a cat could meow under water. And if this was a cat which could meow under water he did not want to be down in the bottom of a well with it. So he hollered for the boys to pull him up.

"So they cranked the windlass and pulled your Uncle Bill up out of the well, and just about the time his head stuck up out of the well box, a big yellow cat landed on top of your Uncle Bill's head.

"It dug its claws into his scalp and the back of his neck. And he couldn't turn loose to get the cat off his head because when the colored boys who were turning the windlass saw him come up out of the well with the cat on his head they turned the windlass loose. And your Uncle Bill had to hang on to the well box with both hands to keep from falling back in the well with the cat on his head.

"Your Uncle Bill finally figured out about the cat. The first thing he noticed when the cat lit on his head was that it was not a wet cat. It never had been in the well in the first place. It had been sitting up on a two-by-four in the top of the well shelter, meowing, and the acoustics of the well was such that it sounded like the cat was down in the well.

"That is the last time your Uncle Bill says that he will ever attempt to get a cat out of a well."

Armed Services Provide Adequate Methods For Disciplining Troops, Decaturite Says

Decatur—I would like to call two or three things to your attention regarding your recent editorial which concerned the Lieutenant Charles C. Anderson case. The first is, as a commander in the Navy who has been a lifelong friend of mine said, that the services have provided adequate methods for officers and non-coms to use in disciplining men.

In other words, he said he has plenty of ways of bringing about discipline without thinking up his own. You have failed to give our services credit for making this provision for its officers and non-coms.

Another thing you have failed to take into consideration is that even non-coms and officers get power drunk and let a little authority completely overwhelm them. This tendency must be restrained in order to prevent downright abuse.

I am not for coddling mama's boys, loafers, etc. as you call them in your editorial, but I also am not for allowing abusive methods of obtaining discipline, especially in the light of the fact that our services have provided adequate means.

Schools Over Radio Would Conserve Time

Alto—Our present system of education, as every thoughtful person knows, is very inefficient. Refractory pupils often exert great influence to nullify the work of the teacher, dull children holding brilliant ones down to lower levels.

Could not a better and entirely different plan be used employing the radio in conjunction with cards and charts, and perhaps even grading the papers by machine, at least partly?

If this could be done the children could be kept at home, where they belong, and not waste untold millions of hours in unsupervised school buses where idle heads become the devil's workshop. Present school buildings could be used for games, athletic contests, debate, lectures, scouting, etc.

Were Guns of B29 Like Fighters', Empty?

Atlanta—The Constitution is to be commended for its recent editorial on the shooting down of a B29 by the Russians, wherein it was suggested fighter escorts be provided for our bombers. Secretary of State Dulles must have seen the editorial because he took the idea under "advisement" next day.

A particular incident comes to mind wherein two American jets were shot down by Russian MIGs while over Germany. Since they were fighter planes the American public wanted to know why they did not open fire on their attackers. The answer—no ammunition in their guns.

Were the gun turrets of the above B29 in the same condition?

McCarthy Hasn't Won Fight But Neither Has He Lost It

Explaining the fact that the mail of most senators favors Senator McCarthy, Senator Edwin Johnson says Americans supporting censure "feel they have already won their fight—that he has been censured by the committee." Yet the struggle to halt abuses of senatorial powers and the blackening of reputations by reckless charges has not been won.

For already Sen. McCarthy, appealing over the Senate's head, has plainly taken the fight to the country. And the nature of the allies he is enlising serves notice that the struggle involves much more than the specific counts in the censure motion or even his career.

For many of the individuals and organizations being brought into the drive for petitions are primarily interested in other things. They are people who have been dissatisfied or frustrated by the course of affairs in recent years, including military leaders who favored a go-it-alone foreign policy and Republicans who consider President Eisenhower a Socialist.

Ordinarily many of these people would have nothing to do with McCarthy methods. Indeed, some of them have fought valiantly for the rights of citizens against official tyranny. But because he has followed their own line on foreign policy they now rally to his aid.

Smart politicians have seen a chance to form a combination of these groups with others whose support of Sen. McCarthy appears to follow more on racial or religious lines, groups which in the main are neither Republican nor conservative. McCarthy managers in the Senate hope to make this coalition politically effective well beyond the censure fight. They count on this coalition to make such a showing in the home states of many senators that they will not dare oppose it. They look toward 1956 and a final desperate effort to recapture the Republican Party from the Eisenhower men.

For the moment the coalition may make a considerable showing. But it faces the prospect of dwindling power. As the period when Communists are infiltrating the government recedes there are bound to be diminishing returns from political use of the issue.

The McCarthy banner is already tattered and faded.

Sober conservatives who pick it up will find their own cause weakened and themselves embarrassed. And Republicans in the Senate who enlist under it will alienate their long-time allies, the conservative Democrats. The "20 years of treason" cry is already pushing Southern Democrats into the arms of New Dealers.

Moreover, the McCarthy methods are not truly conservative; the more they are studied the clearer it will become that they are impelled by mob thinking and are fundamentally destructive of freedom and unity among Americans. The very violence of the attack on such a stanch Republican conservative as Sen. Watkins is alienating thoughtful conservatives. By contrast they are attracted to the moderate, consolidating leadership of the President.

This censure fight should in the end strengthen the Eisenhower position and further isolate the extreme right-wingers in the Republican Party. The attempt to use fear of communism and personal attachment to Sen. McCarthy for other political purposes will fail. But meantime coalition by petition may make it necessary for supporters of censure to let their own voices be heard.

Washington Saw War As It Was

From Phantastes the Prophet, by mail: "In re Lt. Anderson's stupid punishment, here is a quote from a statement by George Washington. I give only one paragraph of the three used in the preface to Book II of "The Valor of Ignorance." It is quoted in full by Lt. Gen. Dana R. Chaffee, former chief of staff, U.S. Army, who wrote one of the introductions to the notable, unread volume. This was in 1909. Chaffee died in 1914.

"Quoth Washington: No militia will ever acquire the habits necessary to resist a regular force. The firmness requisite for the real business of fighting is only to be attained by constant course of discipline and service."

Sherman said the same thing, in three little words.

ALSO IN THE MAIL: From A. C. Joy of 190 Clifton Rd., Atlanta, a correction. Mr. Joy is not a "Reverend" as I said he was recently. Mr. Joy is a layman who enjoys editing "Tydings of Joye," the publication of the W. B. Burke Bible Class at the Kirkwood Methodist Church. The Rev. J. Foster Young is pastor of the church.

From Mayor Noland Wright of Anderson, Ind., the Delco-Remy city: "It might be interesting for you to know that for some reason the starlings never came back this year, so we didn't have to use any control plan. The commissioners at the courthouse did cut down all the trees, doing away with their roosting place. It might have been the reason for their not returning."

The City of Anderson had an order in for one of those recordings of the starling's distress call. The birds must have got the word—off the record, naturally.

Paul Used Wisely His Time in Prison

Paul dreamed of going to Spain. Instead, he landed in a Roman prison, but instead of crying out against God or piously folding his hands and doing nothing, Paul dedicated himself, even in prison. Later he wrote: "But I would ye should understand, brethren, that the things which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the Gospel (Phil. 1:12).

If he could not preach to the multitudes in Spain, he would preach to the guards in prison. If he could not have the opportunities he wanted, he would take the opportunities he had. And then, when you pick up your New Testament, notice that thirteen of the books of it were written by Paul. Much of his best writing was done while in prison.

There he found the quietness that he could not have found on his missionary journeys. I have no idea what victories he might have won in Spain, but I doubt if his contribution to the cause of Christ in Spain would have meant as much to the Christian world as have those letters he wrote while in prison.

Paul's prison might have been God's will after all. His disappointment might have been God's appointment. Certainly, Paul made it so, anyway.

But what say we of those crushing disappointments in life which do not turn into good fortune? Not every prison door opens out into centuries of service, not all valleys of the shadow of death lead to the brightness of the morning. Some of our disappointments we are forced to live with all the way. What then?

Here we must go deeper than the success stories we read in magazines, deeper than those little quick and easy formulas on "How to be happy." We must go to The Cross on Calvary's hill. Without the Cross, Christ would not have been The Saviour. And when we are tempted to despondency and despair, let us hear the Voice across the centuries calling, "Take up the cross, and follow Me" (Mark 10:21).

Dr. Wallace Hamilton tells of an old grandfather clock which stood for generations faithfully ticking off the time. Its momentum came from a heavy weight, suspended by a double chain. In pity the owner thought, "Too bad that such an old clock should have to bear so great a load." So he removed the weight, but the ticking stopped. The clock pleaded, "Please put my weight back. That is what keeps me going."

It may be you have missed some Spain you dreamed of and ended up in some prison of disappointment. If you can't get out of your prison, let God help you make something out of it.

Giant Has Grown From Slow Start

This section below the line surveyed by the Messrs. Mason and Dixon has in the post-war era so consistently exhibited tremendous growth that it has become almost automatic to refer to the area as "The Changing South."

The mimeographing machines of the Atlapta offices of the U.S. Department of Commerce just the other day rolled forth the latest installment in the developing story of Dixie and its industrialization.

Here's the opening sentence of the Commerce Department release:

"Georgia stands tenth among all states in the United States in rate of increase in its business population in the past decade."

This declaration is supported by the finding that Georgia in 1954 had 75,100 business firms, an advance of 71.9 per cent over the number of firms in the state in 1944.

Only Florida, North Carolina, Louisiana and Texas in the South outgrew Georgia in the 10-year period, the summary of new firm development showed. Florida had gained from 46,000 to 104,000 films during the 10 years.

Before one rushes to the conclusion the magnolia trees are being chopped down all over the South, a slight bit of consideration must be given to the fact the Southern area had a relatively small base to pile percentage gains atop.

What we're saying is that the South historically has been less industrialized than some other sections of the country. This means that most any gain would be reflected in higher percentages here than would a similar absolute gain in the Northeast, for example.

The Commerce department release doesn't go into a breakdown of Georgia's new firms. That is, the particular areas of gain are not specified. We can turn to Georgia Department of Labor statistics, however, to give the present composition of the Georgia industrial scene. Approximately 911,000 persons are employed in the state in non-agricultural work.

These persons are dispersed as follows:

There are approximately 313,000 or a third, engaged in manufacturing, 95,000 fashion durable goods and 215,000-plus are employed in the manufacture of non-durable goods.

More than 200,000 Georgians are employed in the trade field, and more than 130,000 are working for some branch of government—state, local, or national. In addition to these major fields—manufacturing and trade—there are major divisions such as construction, 50,000 employes; transportation, communication and public utilities, 70,000; and finance, insurance and real estate, 33,000.

The textile industry, with around 100,000 employes, continues to be Georgia's principal manufacturing field.

Too Much Like Ameche

On the athletic premises of Georgia Tech Friday morning, they were doing their best to forget about a freshman student named Stanley Flowers. They weren't having a great lot of trouble, for Saturday afternoon the varsity plays the University of Georgia in Athens. This is enough to keep the Georgia Tech mind occupied.

But every once in awhile a fellow would wander in and say something about Flowers. "How'd you like that Flowers?" one exuberant transient asked. It was generally considered the most unnecessary question of the day.

Bisher

"I hope," said Bobby Dodd, "that nobody walks in here and says that Flowers is better than Doug Wyckoff. I don't know of any better way to jinx a kid."

"Oh, that couldn't happen," said a guest. "Dickie Mattison was better than Doug Wyckoff. Flowers has got to be better than somebody else. You got anybody in mind?"

"I don't know what all the hollering is about," said a coach who shall remain unidentified. "That Flowers can't block a lick."

There was a jeering laugh around the room. "Yeah," said another tramp, "he'll never be all-America. He runs too much like Alan (The Horse) Ameche."

They were saying all sorts of things about Stanley Flowers, who comes from Memphis, Tenn., and plays left halfback for the Tech freshmen. Thanksgiving Day afternoon he had turned the Scottish Rite freshman game with Georgia into a riot. He had run, as they say, like a scalded dog, and the young Bulldogs had chased him into the end zone three times. Even with Georgia coming up Saturday it wasn't easy to get off the subject of Flowers, for he looked like the greatest thing on foot since the moles quit manufacturing football suits.

—There's Still Time for Mattison

It's a burden on a school and a boy to carry such a reputation as has been cut out for Flowers. In the first place, what they were playing is freshman football. The difference in freshman and varsity football is roughly the difference between the lower minors and the majors the baseball chain of order.

"I've seen a many a kid run wild in that freshman game," Dodd said, "and never be heard from again. I just hate to see a boy get built so high on one ball game. Flowers has the potential to be a great football player, but I believe these things when I see them on the varsity."

"I remember," said Ray Graves, "that our best lineman on the field last year was a boy named Dave Powers. I'll bet you'd forgotten him, hadn't you?"

The answer was yes. "He looked like a fine prospect," Graves said, "but he never got to the varsity. He quit school and now he's in the Marine Corps."

One of the big runners that day was a rookie named Fred Casey. Last I heard of him, he was playing in the backfield for Jacksonville State in Alabama. Dickie Mattison had no freshman game prestige to overcome. He had just an average sort of day, but still there was all the fuss they made about the boy. He was 200 pounds big, ran very hurriedly and had an assortment of fine football credentials.

You can't say yet that Mattison won't be another Doug Wyckoff. He's only a sophomore, and a lot of developing can take place in junior and senior years of an athlete with Mattison's native talent. He may have been pushed a little ahead of schedule, but when George Humphreys came through, that took the fullback pressure off him.

—Someone for Stan To Be Better Than

Flowers has everything going for him—size, speed, a sense of timing, character and a desire to play football. It was destructive, the manner in which he ran over people who got in his way Thursday. You never really got the idea he's elusive, for he never had to be elusive.

Still, he was just a freshman football player. They'll begin to measure him up for one of those glory suits only when he plays the reckless rake in the same manner with varsity people on the field. Then you'll be safe to pick the man he'll be better than.

As a freshman team, this wasn't the kind of smooth unit that represented Tech in the massacre of 1950, the year of Leon Hardeman, Bob Sherman, Courts Redford, Glenn Turner and friends. Georgia was able to stay with them for a half, but then the recession and fatigue set in. The Bullpups haven't had the advantages of the Tech rookies. They've had to spend many of their afternoons scrimmaging the varsity. At Tech, there's a B team for the laboratory work.

Georgia still hasn't come up with that back who can go the distance, the kind of genius who can break up a game. Wilbur Lofton is a bear for short yardage. Nick Bracco reminds me of Zippy Morocco, quick and fast, but light. Henry Dukes is a hard hitter on the inside, a gentleman worth every cent of a scholarship. There is the possibility of a sleeper in Charley Barnes, the Ocilla recruit who was restrained by injury.

Thursday morning freshman coach John Robert Bell and defensive backfield coach Lew Woodruff met on the street. Woodruff stuck his head out the window of his car and said in a soft holler: "Remember, hold the score down."

He still has scars from the backfire of the 54-6 score that his freshman gang rolled up in '50.

"Don't worry," said the droll Bell, "that was never one of my faults."

Tech, Georgia Renew Fierce Rivalry Today

Added Ingredients Like Bowls, Titles Flavor Traditional Battle Slated for 2 p.m. at Athens

By FURMAN BISHER
Sports Editor, The Constitution

ATHENS, Nov. 26—The annual Georgia Football Sweepstakes will be run over the 100-yard course at Sanford Stadium Saturday afternoon with two entries, Georgia and Georgia Tech, and the winner will take all—state championship, bowl trip and maybe the title in the Southeastern Conference.

The SEC part of the loot depends on how things develop out in Oxford, Miss., where Ole Miss plays Mississippi State. As one, the state of Georgia will be yearning for a State victory, in which case the winner of the Athens match automatically succeeds to the conference throne.

As for the bowls, both the Cotton and Gator Bowls have been flirting with both teams. The Gator Bowl has a hankering for a Georgia Tech-Baylor match, or Georgia-Baylor, as the case may be. Tech, first, has its eyes on the Cotton Bowl and has made no bones about its desire to meet Arkansas there on New Year's Day.

But first things first. Over 48,000 people, a sellout crowd, will glut Sanford Stadium for the 49th match between these two old football houses. And in the end, should Tech win, they'll be right back where they started 61 years ago—all even. Georgia has won 22 times, Tech 21 and five have been ties. Tech has made up a lot of lost ground in the last five years, which have been converted into five Tech victories.

The kickoff is at 2 o'clock. The weather will be fair, cold, overcoat and foot-warmer stuff.

Every method of transportation between Atlanta and Athens will be taxed, train, plane and highway. A least five special trains will carry their loads to the Georgia campus, and charter planes and busses will deliver their cargoes.

This would be the case if neither team had made a great big impression on the football world. But Georgia has been the surprise of the SEC season, stands on the brink of title after being touted to finish eighth. Tech has lost three games by a total of 10 points, but the Jackets have come fast in recent weeks and today perhaps are the strongest team in the conference. That remains to be debated here Saturday afternoon.

If Tech wins, it will give Coach Bobby Dodd his fourth bowl team in a row. If Georgia wins, it will bring Coach Wallace Butts his eighth bowl team. Once he went four times straight, from '46 through '49. Still, however, Henry Frnka set the record when he was at Tulsa University with a streak of five bowl appearances.

In the matter of personnel, both teams are concerned at quarterback. Tech may see Wade Mitchell restricted to spot use, and senior Bill Brigman has been working on a bum ankle. Georgia is fretting about Jimmy Harper's throwing shoulder. Either or all may suddenly turn up heartier than expected Saturday morning.

Georgia has won six, lost to Texas A&M and Auburn and been tied by Alabama on a total of 86 points, 9.6 per game. The line says they're to lose this one by two touchdowns.

The last time a Georgia football team beat a Tech team was 1949, an 18-0 freshman victory. They're getting a little hungry over here. With all that's riding on this one, the Bulldogs could fatten up considerably after this long siege of starvation.

Bowl Bids Spurring Grid Rivals Today

Traditional Battles Cram Football's Final Weekend

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP)—Six invitations to Jan. 1's rich bowl games will be up for grabs Saturday as college football bows out with a small but select list of traditional games.

The bowl bid atmosphere even extends to the Army-Navy clash at Philadelphia. Both service academies traditionally are cold to invitations from bowl sponsors, but Sugar Bowl officials still say Navy is under consideration for the New Orleans game.

Sugar Bowl officials are also quite frank to say Mississippi will be one of their teams Jan. 1—if the Rebels can wrap up the Southeastern Conference title by whipping troublesome Mississippi State.

Baylor will have two goal sin its battle with Rice: A tie with Arkansas as Southwest Conference champion and a Sugar Bowl berth.

Arkansas, after successive losses to Southern Methodist and Louisiana State, will try to climb back at Houston's expense.

Arkansas' opponent on Jan. 1, could well be Georgia Tech, a veteran bowl team which closes its season against Georgia, an old, bitter rival. If Mississippi should lose out in the Sugar Bowl scramble, however, Georgia Tech would be a prime candidate to succeed the Rebels, and Mississippi might wind up in the Cotton Bowl.

Other possibilities are West Virginia, which closes out against Virginia; Auburn, which meets Alabama, and Kentucky, which concluded its season last week.

Duke hopes to clinch a spot in the Orange Bowl opposite Nebraska by trouncing old rival North Carolina.

Maryland's tremendous exhibition of power, speed and finesse in a 74-13 humbling of Missouri Thursday kept the Terrapins in the running for the Orange Bowl.

The loser in the Orange Bowl voting automatically becomes a hot prospect for the Gator Bowl. Miami closes out a successful season against Florida and would be a prime bowl possibility except for a NCAA ruling barring the Hurricanes from any bowl this year.

Upsurging Plainsmen Tangle With Dangerous Bama Today

48,000 To See Annual Scrap

Special to The Constitution
BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 26—A "sleeping giant" and an "aroused tiger" meet in Legion Field here Saturday afternoon with the latter entry a two-touchdown favorite to emerge victorious.

Translated, this is the intrastate battle between Alabama, sleeping party of the first part, and Auburn, aroused party of the second part.

Their game, scheduled for a 2 p.m. (CST) kickoff before a capacity 48,000, will be for Southeastern Conference standing, a possible bowl invitation and personal satisfaction.

Every week since the beginning of the season, Alabama has been tagged a "sleeping giant" by its next week's opponent. Auburn's Ralph Jordan has been no exception in fearing that the Crimson Tide would take this weekend to explode.

Alabama has been the disappointment of the SEC. With such talented backs as Corky Tharp, Bobby Luna and Bart Starr and a rugged line, the Tide was favored to repeat as conference champion. But in their last five games, Red Drew's lads have scored only two touchdowns with a shutout string of 3½ games in the middle.

The Tide's record now reads at 3-2-2 in the conference and 4-4-2 overall, both far removed from the bowl and championship picture.

Auburn's picture has been just reversed, although not without its disappointing angles. The Plainsmen, a surprise power last year, won their opening game, then dropped the next three in a row.

At that point, the Plainsmen became "aroused" and have now rocked through five straight opponents. A victory over Alabama would make it six in a row for a respectable 7-3 record and visions of bowl bids.

MITCHELL TO PLAY

NEARLY WELL TECH JACKETS FACING BULLDOGS TODAY

By BERT PRATHER

Wade Mitchell will be available to play. Not first rate, but available. That was the big news at The Flats on the eve of Georgia Tech's invasion of Athens for its traditional battle with Georgia's Bulldogs before a sellout throng of 48,000 Saturday afternoon at Sanford Stadium.

The big sophomore quarterback, who had been very much on the doubtful list after suffering a chest injury in the Alabama game two weks ago, tried out his throwing arm in Friday's light drill, first time he has thrown since the injury, and trainer Buck Andel put his okay on him for game duty if needed. Previously Tech planned to use him only as extra-point kicker.

However, senior Bill Brigman, who has been particularly effective against the Bulldogs the past two years, will be the opening pilot and more than likely see the heaviest duty. Junior Bucky Shamburger, third man in the signal corps, stands ready if Brigman and Mitchell need relief.

Center Jimmy M. Morris, another ailing Jacket, may see some service, too, but Captain Larry Morris, facing the Bulldogs for the last time, no doubt will be chaffing the bit to go most of the way at the pivot post.

Senior George Humphreys, nursing an ankle injury since the 'Bama scrap, won't start, but will be rarin' to go when the coaches give him the nod to take over at fullback. Senior Johnny Hunsinger gets the opening call. Ailing sophomore tackle Frank Christy is the only Jacket definitely out.

Other Jacket starters Saturday are Henry Hair and Jimmy Durham, ends; Carl Vereen and either Ormand Anderson or Rees Phenix, tackles; Franklin Brooks and Bill Fulcher, guards, and Paul Rotenberry and Johnny Menger, halfbacks. Hair, Durham, and Phenix will be taking their last cracks at the Bulldogs.

Among the other senior squad members are quarterback Dave Redford, halfback Jimmy L. Morris, center Jimmy Carlen, guards Linwood Roberts and Ray Williock, tackle Ben Daugherty and ends Bill Sennett, Frank Webster and Buddy Jones.

Coach Bobby Dodd said he expected this one to be a typical Tech-Georgia game, hard fought and close. "Georgia has a good fast line and backs who can move the ball on the ground. We have more backfield speed and we are hoping some of our boys get away," he said. If they do, the Jackets may be spending New Year's Day away from home again. Bowl folks will be at Athens.

Bisher Picks:

SOUTH—Georgia Tech over Georgia, Auburn over Alabama, Miami over Florida, Louisiana State over Tulane, Ole Miss over Mississippi State, Vanderbilt over Tennessee, Clemson over The Citadel, Duke over North Carolina, South Carolina over Wake Forest, Mississippi Southern over Florida State.

EAST—Army over Navy, Boston College over Holy Cross, Fordham over Villanova.

MIDWEST—Notre Dame over Southern California, Nebraska over Hawaii.

SOUTHWEST—Arkansas over Houston, Baylor over Rice, Southern Methodist over Texas Christian, Texas Tech over Hardin-Simmons, Texas Western over West Texas, Oklahoma over Oklahoma A. & M.

FAR WEST—San Jose over New Mexico, Wyoming over Arizona.

Season's Record: 364 right, 144 wrong—Average .717.

Sugar for Rebels Or Title for State

Maroons Can Rob Ole Miss Of Bowl Bid, Trophy, Ranking

By JESSE OUTLAR
Constitution Sports Writer

OXFORD, Miss., Nov. 26—Late Saturday afternoon Ole Miss will have a Sugar Bowl bid, an SEC trophy and a high national rating, or else Mississippi State will be champion of Mississippi.

An overflow crowd of 36,000 will jam Hemingway Stadium here in William Faulkner's home town to see if Johnny Vaught's once-beaten Rebels can pick up all the chips.

Ole Miss has $100,000 and its reputation going on this one roll of the football dice. The Sugar Bowl people are eager to deposit a hundred grand in Ole Miss' name, and a victory would automatically seal the Rebs' first SEC title since '47.

The entire deal is off, however, if youthful Darrell Royal's Maroons spring an upset. In fact, Mississippi State would have a long-shot chance at a bowl invitation, if it became the champ of the soverign state of Mississippi.

A Maroon victory would give Royal a startling 7-3 record in his first season at Starkville, and produce the wildest title scramble in SEC history. Either Georgia or Tech would step on the throne, unless they battle to a tie. In that case, Kentucky and Florida would share the marbles.

Mississippi is a 13-point favorite to take it all. The Rebs have kayoed eight foes in impressive style, bowing only to Arkansas in a game which went into books as a league loss.

Mississippi State took it on the chin from Tennessee, Miami and Florida. In their last encounter, the Maroons bashed LSU, 25-0, and looked capable of giving any outfit a close battle.

However, they'll be bucking the stiffest defense and the strongest offense in the conference in this one. Eagle Day, Allen Muirhead, Bobby McCool and their playmates have averaged 399 yards per game. A rugged line, featuring tackle Rex Boggan, has limited opponents to a mere 172 yards per scuffle. The Rebs have outscored their foes, 269 to 47, and no team has crossed their goal line twice in the last eight games.

In Art Davis, who received the SEC's MVP award in The Constitution's annual poll, the Maroons have the outstanding back in the circuit. Davis is a consistent threat to go all the way.

Hal Easterwood, an All-America center candidate, is the key man in State's defensive units.

LAST CHANCE AT JACKPOT

Seven Bulldogs Get Last Shot at Jackets

By LARRY FOX

Win, lose or draw, Georgia fans will be yelling, "wait till next year," Saturday when the dust clears from their annual fracas with Georgia Tech.

As Georgia's seven seniors file off Sanford Stadium for the last time, Bulldog coaches and fans will no doubt be eyeing the lads who follow along—the juniors and sophomores—most of whom are just completing their first full year under fire.

These are the boys who carry Georgia's "coming back" hopes for future seasons and, with help from the 1954 freshmen team, figure to improve the Bulldogs' grid fortunes immeasureably.

From the Georgia end crew, only captain Joe O'Malley leaves. The finest defensive end in the Southeastern Conference. O'Malley will leave a big dent. But Roy Wilkins and Laneair Roberts, two of the most promising sophomores to Georgia history, will be back.

Not a single tackle or guard departs and that's the heart of any football team and the heart of Georgia's hopes for an even more successful 1955. At tackle, Pud Mosteller and Walter White lead the way. At guard its Len Spadafino and Don Shea, a couple of juniors, backed up by sophomores Tony Cushenberry and Wayne Dye.

Center will lose a lot of depth when reserves Harry Kotes and Fred Nutt call it a career. But one-two men Bill Saye and Billy Carrollton, who were just introduced to their jobs this season, return with a year's experience.

The entire quarterback crew comes back, headed by juniors Jimmy Harper and Dick Young.

Only departing left halfback is Jimmy Campagna, who earlier lost his first-string job to junior John Bell because of injuries.

A major loss at right halfback will be dependable Charlie Madison but break-away backs with speed round out the righthalf roster and will return.

Fullback suffers the most loss, physically and talent-wise, but figures to be one of Georgia's best-stocked next year again.

True, alternate captain Bob Clemens and reserve Howard Kelly go but returning are Bobby Garrard, who's been running first-string most of the time, and Knox Culpepper.

So on the eve of the big game, Bulldog fans are looking ahead to bigger and better things.

'RECORD' IMMINENT

Four SEC Elevens In Brawl for Cellar

History will be set this Saturday when any one of three schools ends up in last place for the first time since the Southeastern Conference was formed.

Two games involving the four inhabitants of the SEC's lower third will settle the issue and oddly, the only team among the four that has ever finished in last place cannot do so again.

That's Tulane, a seven-point underdog in its annual battle with Louisiana State.

The Greenies, who finished last in 1951 and '53, are in ninth place in the SEC with a 1-5-1 record and can drop no lower than .188 in the percentage tables should they lose to LSU.

The Bengals, who are a disappointing 11th right now with a 1-5 conference card, could drop to a .143 mark if they lose. Worst finishes in Bengal history were 11th in 1948 and 10th in '52.

Up at Nashville, Vanderbilt is a seven-point underdog in its match with Tennessee and the Commodores are most likely to finish last this season. Vandy has not won in five conference games but can finish with a .167 record by upsetting the Vols. A loss or tie would put Vandy in the cellar no matter what happens to the others. Worst Vandy finish on record is 11th in 1952.

Tennessee's proud Vols actually can do no worse than tie for last place. A Tennessee loss would drop the Vols to .167 same as Vandy, but LSU would also have to lose. Worst Vol finish was in 1947, 10th.

Right now, Vanderbilt is in last place with an 0-5 mark while Tennessee is 10th at 1-4.

Other big intrastate, SEC games send Georgia Tech against Georgia, Mississippi against Mississippi State and Auburn against Alabama.

The only nonconference game on the card has Miami a two-touchdown choice over Florida at Gainesville. Kentucky has finished its season.

SOME BOOKWORK FOR LINEMAN OF YEAR
Fulton's Vernon Cunard, Bobbie Abernathy Head Home

Simerville, Cunard and Creel Lead Constitution's All-Greater Atlanta

Hapeville's Pierce Chosen On Prep All-Star 3d Time

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Northside High's Lester Simerville, leading ground gainer and scorer in the City League, and Vernon Cunard, 190-pounder whose savage guard play sparked Fulton's Redbirds to the Southside championship, have been chosen as the area's back and lineman of the year and are named co-captains of The Constitution's 1954 All-Greater Atlanta high school football squad.

Simerville, All-State selectee in 1953, gained more than 1,000 yards for the second consecutive season and sparked Northside to its first City League (Region 3-AA) crown. His loop-leading point total in 10 regular-season games was 94. The six-foot, 175-pound senior, state AA 220-yard dash champion for two years, is expected to win all-state and possibly all-Southern honors when the picking is done.

Weyman Creel

Cunard, a 190-pounder, is one of the most bruising linemen to perform here in many seasons. The husky, blond senior "specialized" in blocking punts and extra point kicks and spearheaded one of the strongest lines fielded in Atlanta through the years. He also booted conversion points. He, like Simerville, is being sought by numerous colleges.

Coach of the year honors go to Northside's Weyman Creel, who moulded a championship team even though the Tigers began the season without a single regular lineman back from the 1953 squad. Creel gives line mentor Edd O'Quinn much of the credit for the phenomenal development of the forewall.

Ed Pierce, Hapeville's sparkling 170-pound end, made history by becoming the first player ever to make the 22-man squad, chosen by The Constitution's prep staff after getting recommendations of all coaches involved, for three straight seasons. Pierce was an all-state choice in 1952 and 1953. He, Simerville and Brown High's Freddie Trainer are the only three repeaters from 1953. Trainer, who played both ends and all four backfield positions during 1954, is chosen at end again.

Simerville and Creel were easy choices for top honors, and Cunard had a bitter fight on his hands with Pierce and Jack Rudolph, 6-3, 185-pound Grady end, for lineman honors.

Marvin Tibbetts, sensational West Fulton triple-threat, became the only soph other than Pierce ever to make the team. The six-foot, 176-pounder led all city passers, netting almost 1,000 yards with his tosses even though he played in rain three times. Bass High back Phil Heisler missed making the squad only because of a sidelining mid-season injury.

Tommy Redmond, 6-4 Russell end, was switched to tackle, and Murphy's 274-pound tackle Bob (Baby) Tidwell to guard, where he played for two previous seasons. Fulton's end-tackle Fred Murphy was chosen at tackle. Players were not picked from schools beyond Decatur or College Park and Hapeville.

Fulton placed three players, the third being center Dale Cansler. Brown, Russell, Northside, North Fulton and Murphy gained two spots each. Copping single berths were Hapeville, Grady, Sylvan, Decatur, Bass, O'Keefe, West Fulton, Roosevelt and Smith.

Hardest players to eliminate, and last to be pared from the list, were Druid Hills' tackle Red Ivey, Roosevelt end Fred Rice, Bass guard Winkie Kirk, West Fulton guard Bobby Lovin, O'Keefe tackle Phillip Groover, Marist end Harvey Enloe, Druid Hills' back Tim Singleton, Hapeville back Jimmy Smith, Roosevelt back Ted Moseley and the injured Heisler.

Benedictine And Savannah Playoff Tonight

Special to The Constitution

SAVANNAH, Nov. 26—The Class 2-AA fight will be settled here Saturday night when Savannah High's Blue Jackets take on Benedictine for the second time in three days.

Benedictine forced the playoff when they knocked off the Jackets on Thanksgiving Day, 28-13. A victory Thursday would have given the Savannah club the Region title.

Reason for the hastened playoff is that the winner will have to play Albany for the South Georgia championship the following Friday night.

Kickoff time is set for 8:15.

'MAMBO JOE' DELANY RAN, TOO

Frosh Post-Mortem Applauds Flowers, Lofton, Dukes

By JIMMY MANN

Friday they were talking about the hot-shot Georgia Tech Baby Jackets and whenever a new guy entered the conversation he came up with a, "Boy, did you see that Flowers run?" One guy, sitting through the whole thing, came back, "I like that DeLany, too."

That's the way it went.

Stan Flowers of Memphis was billed all the way through to have a great day against anybody. He went into the game with 252 yards gained in two other days and he tacked another 138 onto that total.

Just as the fellow said, "I like that DeLany, too." Tech likes DeLany and the record-breaking crowd of 35,000 folks who witnessed the Thanksgiving Day game at Grant Field liked the ex-North Fulton star.

David Robinson Henry Dukes

Going into his final freshman battle, DeLany was picked as one of the co-captains of the Jackets with Harold Greer of Lebanon, Tenn., as the other. Ten times DeLany was passed the ball during the fight with the Bullpups and he finished with 73 yards. On one of these spins he mamboed his way through the line on the "inside play" and skipped 38 yards for the fourth Baby Jacket touchdown.

Not one person in the huge gathering left worrying about the fullback situation at Georgia for years to come, Wilbur Lofton of Atlanta's Grady High and Henry Dukes of Augusta ripped the Jacket line pretty good at times.

Rannie Smith, Bullpup quarterback, started the second half by punishing the Jacket front men with Lofton licks up the middle. The bruising fullback whacked away at the Jackets but Greer, Johnny Thomason and a couple of Roses, Tommy and Jimmy, rationed the yardage around midfield, then even cut off the pitiful ration entirely once the enemy advanced too close to paydirt.

Ocilla's Charlie Barnes did some fancy stepping throughout the game. He got the Bullpups' only touchdown with a deceptive skirt of his own left end early in the game.

Back on the Tech side, there was David Robison, another Lebanon, Tenn., boy, who was supposed to divide the quarterbacking duties with Charley Maynard of Decatur, but did such a masterful job of trickery throughout the heated first period that he was left in to complete "his" work.

In the line for the Bullpups, Mike Anderson of Atlanta, Travis Vinesett of Gaffney, S.C., and Lindsey Bass of Tifton made a terrific bid for future stardom. that trio stood on an even plane with any of the Tech front line men.

For Tech, Thomason, the Roses, Greer and Don Denning served well in the line. They had Flowers as their leader in victory but as winning Coach John Robert Bell put it, "it was a team effort." They just teamed with Flowers well.

Army-Navy Offense Collision To Resound in Philly Today

Bowl Bid Seen For Navy Win

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26 (AP). Army and Navy, the nation's greatest offensive football teams, meet tomorrow in a game that figures to be so close and unpredictable that even a scoreless tie wouldn't be too big a surprise.

Off the records, it should be an exciting, free-scoring game between two teams that have averaged better than 30 points a game. But the only certainty is that the teams will play their hearts out before some 105,000 spectators in jam-packed Municipal Stadium.

This colorful spectacle always is a sellout, usually before the season opens, and this year the interest has mounted amazingly as the Cadets and Midshipmen have compiled two of the best records in Eastern football.

The fact that the Eastern college championship likely will be decided is a matter of minor importance. This is a game of national appeal, heightened by the fact that it will be televised nationally as the NCAA game of the week and broadcast by radio to outlying military and naval installations as well as in the United States.

The kickoff is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. (EST) but the spectacle starts at noon when the 2,400 gray-clad members of Army's corps of cadets march into the big stadium. The regiment of midshipmen, 3,600 strong —hosts for this year's game— will parade in about 20 minutes later. The weather forecast is cloudy and cool, with afternoon temperatures in the 40's.

For the first time since 1923, there's a possibility that the Army-Navy contest may have a bearing on one of the New Year's Day Bowl games. Navy has had feelers from the Sugar Bowl and Cotton Bowl and, while there has been no formal expression, indications are that the attitude at Annapolis is favorable to acceptance. It was learned reliably today that a statement probably will be made right after tomorrow's game. If Navy should win, or even tie, it might be an acceptance. Navy played Washington in the Rose Bowl after the 1923 season.

Army, winner of seven games since its opening loss to South Carolina, is a slight favorite. The odds-makers put the margin at four points. But there's no obvious reason for this favoritism. They're look-alike teams with explosive speed and almost equal records. Navy has won six games and lost two—by margins of a couple of missed points after touchdowns and by a goal-line fumble.

Final Test Sunday For Duck Pin Spots

Cowart, Nelson Lead in Series

By JIMMY MANN

The pins will be set up Sunday afternoon at Luckie Strike alleys for the third and final 10-game series for the two places allotted Atlantans for the National Duck Pin tournament set for Washington early in 1955.

Jack Pearce, promoter at the alley, says that the final action promises to be hot and heavy with leaders Truman Cowart and Dick Nelson having tough jobs cut out for them in beating back challengers Billy Allen, Carl Tidwell, Doyle Darden and Billy Pelot.

Cowart and Nelson have 2,581 and 2,568 pins kayoed in 20 games so far.

In a special Thanksgiving Day feature Gene Sirbaugh took top honors with 939 pins dumped. It was his second straight victory in the meet.

Billy Pelot was second with 934 and Billy Allen and Skip Hogan followed in that order.

In the Buckhead Bowling Center's "head-pin" tournament last week, John Willis took top honors with 106. Abe Hyman of Southern Latex was second with 104 and third man was Cash Peacock of Red Hawl with 101.

PIT BITS: Randall Brothers and Miller's both dropped two games in their Tuesday-night play at the Buckhead Center in the City 10 Pin League and allowed Lehigh to slip into a second-place tie with Miller's. Both have 25-8 marks as compared to Randall's 27-6. . . . C. L. Crawford of Lehigh had the top game and set of the night, he posted a 201-game while setting up his 519 series. . . . Other 500 sets were marked off by Bud Workman (510), and Cash Peacock (510). Larry Kepler was high set man for the Northside 10-Pin League with 568. Robert Ross scored the highest game of the night, a 233.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP)—Native Dancer, Alfred Vanderbilt's Grey Ghost of Sagamore who was retired in August because of a foot injury, was voted "Horse of the Year" today in the 19th annual poll of Triangle Publications racing experts.

The 4-year-old Dancer received 19 of the 33 ballots cast by the Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form experts. His closest competition came from the King Ranch's High Gun, with 11 votes. Andy Crevolin's Determine got 2 votes, William Helic Jr.'s Helioscope, 1.

High Gun, owned by Robert J. Kleberg of Texas, was the overwhelming choice as 3-year-old champion with 28 votes. Kentucky Derby winner Determine had 4, and Pimlico Special winner Helioscope had 1.

The 2-year-old championship went to the Belair Stud's Nashua by a 29-4 bulge over Mrs. Russell A. Firestone's Summer Tan.

Family of 4 Costs Here 4th in U.S.

Living expenses for the average four-member Atlanta family are the fourth highest in the nation, the regional director of the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics declared here Friday.

Brunswick Bagdon

Speaking to a joint meeting of chapters of the Civil Service Assembly of the U.S. and Canada and the American Society for Public Administration, Brunswick A. Bagdon discounted claims that living costs in the South are lower than in the North.

A study of the expenditures of the average four-member Atlanta family here shows that $4,315 yearly is expended in maintaining a luxury-free standard of living in keeping with the surrounding community, he said.

Bagdon explained these figures were determined in a study made here in October, 1951, but added the figures still are applicable. The consumer index rose 1.2 per cent between that date and June of 1953, he said, but since has declined 1.1 per cent.

RENTS AND FOODS

The total expenditures for Atlanta families included $3,844 for rents, services and foods, $310 for personal taxes and $161 for other costs.

The three cities whose average four-member family upkeep costs were above Atlanta's are Milwaukee, Washington, D. C., and Richmond, Va. Milwaukee's $4,387 leads the nation.

Income of the families included in the survey ranged from $2,000 to $9,000, he explained. Bagdon added that quite a large percentage of Atlanta families fall below the $2,000 yearly income level.

Bagdon also revealed that numerous labor organizations which previously have included "escalator" wage clauses geared to index changes in their contracts now are leaving them out.

GEARED TO INDEX

Explaining that the salaries of some 6,000,000 workers in the nation are geared to the consumer price index, Bagdon said the index, between 1940 and 1952, was "the best thing that could be used" by labor in negotiating wage contracts.

But since prices have more or less stabilized and the index level is falling, he added, many labor organizations are seeking to eliminate "escalator" clauses because they are not to the advantage of union members.

Following his address, new officers of the joint chapters were installed by Dr. Lynwood Holland, past chapter president for the public administration society. New officers are Dr. Henry Pepper, president; Joseph T. Ecker, vice president, and Mrs. Helen Thompson, secretary-treasurer.

in his office at the Augusta National Club and announced the appointment of a Southerner to a high State Department post.

NATIVE OF DURHAM

He named George V. Allen, now U.S. ambassador to India, to become assistant secretary of state for Near East, South Asian and African affairs.

A career diplomat, the 51-year-old Allen is a native of Durham, N.C., and has been in the U.S. foreign service since 1931. He was ambassador to Iran in 1945 and ambassador to Yugoslavia in 1949 before going to India.

Allen will replace Henry A. Byroade, who will become ambassador to Egypt, succeeding Jefferson Caffery, who is retiring.

There was speculation here that John Sherman Cooper, the Kentucky senator defeated for re-election by Alben Barkley a few weeks ago, might get Allen's post in India. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, who made the announcement of the State Department shuffles, had no comment, however, on who might succeed Allen in the Indian assignment.

McCOY PRAISED

Hagerty disclosed that the President has accepted the resignation of Whitley P. McCoy as director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. Eisenhower sent a message of thanks for his service to McCoy, who is returning to private busines.

Early in the day, Eisenhower was informed of the reported Chinese Communist invasion attempt on the tiny island of Wuchui, off Formosa, Hagerty said, but would have no comment. The press secretary declined to say whether the President regarded the situation there as "serious."

The chief executive began his day by bidding an early morning forewell to his comrade of World War II days, Britain's Field Marshal Viscount Bernard Montgomery.

After spending Thanksgiving Day here with the Eisenhowers, Montgomery was flown back to Washington aboard the presidential plane, the Columbine III, to sit in on a meeting of the American Joint Chiefs of Staff.

might bring out the tell-tale blue-green color. But he said some chemicals, though they would give off the prescribed color, would do so before "the final step in our test," and therefore would be discounted.

Corrigan tried for one more exception to the benzidine test. He asked if "a fly, which had sucked blood from a human being, would leave stains?" Dombrowski agreed it would.

Dombrowski also told of testing various "implements" at the Sheppard home July 23, including a hatchet, a hammer and fireside implements. He also said pieces of wood from the fireside basket were checked.

COAGULATION

Corrigan apparently anticipated the state's contention that the killer wandered about the house dripping blood. "Did you ever test how far blood can be carried on hands or clothing?" he asked.

"No," Dombrowski answered.

"You know blood congeals on a weapon very quickly and won't drip and if you get your hands soaked with blood it would drip only a short distance?" Corrigan asked.

"Well, that would depend on atmospheric conditions and on whether you were running or walking," Dombrowski said.

Dombrowski will return to the stand when the trial resumes Monday to start its seventh week.

3rd Charged In Slaying of Remington

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 26 (AP)—The FBI today accused a third prisoner, a 17-year-old juvenile delinquent, in the slaying of William Walter Remington and charged that robbery was the motive.

The motive for the brutal assault on Remington with a brick wrapped in a sock last Monday was revealed with the filing of a murder complaint against Lewis Cagle Jr., of Chattanooga, Tenn., who is serving a 15-month term imposed in Chattanooga Dec. 12, 1952, for juvenile delinquency. Cagle admitted the former government economist was killed when he surprised the three ransacking his cell.

George Junior McCoy, 34, of Grundy, Va., and Robert Carl Parker, 21, of Washington, D. C., were charged previously with the slaying.

"Cagle admits," Special Agent Norman H. McCabe, in charge of the FBI at Philadelphia, said, "that he, together with McCoy and Parker, planned to ransack Remington's room on the morning of Nov. 22 and that the assault took place while they were in his room."

McCabe declined to comment on whether all three took part in the actual beating. Nevertheless, all three were charged with first degree murder.

McCabe's first assistant, Earl Brown, said the FBI's investigation in the case was not closed with the youth's arrest.

Shortly after Remington died following an emergency operation in the prison hospital Tuesday morning, his attorney in New York revealed that the lockers of Remington and his cellmates had been looted four times in two months and that a mattress had been burned.

see nothing but good business in the immediate future."

Jagels thinks good business this Christmas will develop into good spring sales—unlike last year when cold weather held on into the summer.

Virgil W. Milton, Atlanta zone manager for Sears, Roebuck & Co., said business Friday was "better than any time in the history of Sears' Atlanta stores, both in traffic and sales.

"We'll have our best season in history, and we're better prepared to handle it than ever before in terms of inventories, parking facilities and sales methods."

"So far this year," Milton added, "business is slightly ahead of 1953."

Other retail merchants were equally enthusiastic.

One executive commented that just about everybody was out—men, women and high school and college students. "And they weren't just looking," he said happily. "They were buying."

Another retailer said merchandise of all kinds, at all price levels, was moving well.

What's more, there was no sign of a let-up as nighttime approached. Parking lots, most of them jammed bumper-to-bumper since early morning, were still full. All available police were still doing their best to keep traffic moving.

Streets were so clogged that the Atlanta Transit System had every possible man on the job to keep its trolleys and buses on the go.

Co-sponsored by The Atlanta Journal-Constitution and the Atlanta Retail Merchants Assn., the After-Thanksgiving sale will continue through Saturday.

Robert S. Sommerville, president of the Atlanta Transit Co. estimated it transported a half-million Atlantans to and from town during the day.

"It looks like the busiest day the company has ever had," he commented.

Provoo Pleads Innocent for Second Trial

BALTIMORE, Nov. 26 (AP)—John David Provoo, defendant in what the government described as "the most important treason trial since that of Aaron Burr," pleaded innocent at his arraignment here today.

The 37-year-old former Army sergeant entered the plea through newly appointed counsel, and Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen set the start of his second trial for March 17.

In the first trial Provoo was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. He had been accused of broadcasting propaganda for the Japanese in World War II, abusing fellow American soldiers in Pacific prisoner camps and causing the death of Army Capt. Burton C. Thomson of Swea City, Iowa, by informing on him to their Japanese captors.

A federal appeals court upset the conviction last Aug. 27, some 18 months later, wiping out a million-dollar government investment. Prosecutors had said it cost that much to prepare the case, bring witnesses from all over the world, and try Provoo.

The appeals court said the case should never have been tried in New York and the government wrongfully insinuated before the jury that Provoo was homosexual.

Kefauver Sees Adlai Chance Best for 1956

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) said today that "as of now it looks as though Adlai Stevenson had the best chance" of winning the Democratic presidential nomination in 1956.

Stevenson, former governor of Illinois, won the nomination two years ago after Kefauver led in the early balloting at the party convention.

While Kefauver said Stevenson seems to have the best chance of capturing the nomination in 1956, he added in an interview that it isn't possible to say what the situation will be two years from now.

He said Stevenson would have "some difficulties" to overcome, such as being out of office and lacking a forum for the expression of his views.

Kefauver himself is not a candidate for president in 1956, he said, and has no plans to be one. He added, however, that, "I don't think one can ever say with finality what may happen in the future."

MISSING TOT FOUND—MT. PLEASANT, Tenn., Nov. 26—Two-year-old Edward Williams, missing 24 hours in near-freezing temperatures, was found in a wooded area one and a half miles from his home after about 500 men joined the search for him. Physicians said he suffered only from exposure and scratches.

57 Killed as Villages Fight Over Slaying

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 26 (AP)—Fifty-seven persons were killed in a clash between villagers of Pangsha and Yimpang in the remote northeastern frontier area of India over the murder of a mail runner, officials said today.

According to officials, the Pangsha villagers raided Yimpang because they suspected that residents of the latter village had killed a Pangsha mail runner.

these unjustly detained American nationals forthwith, in accordance with the Korean armistice agreement and in conformity with the elementary precepts of justice and humanity."

The protest also said the action aaginst the 13 Americans was a "significant" addition to the already long list of "Chinese Communist outrages against American nationals, which the American people have borne with restraint thus far."

ANTICIPATED

The Defense Department declined to comment further on the Chinese Communist action, but a spokesman called attention to the concluding sentence of the department's statement of last Tuesday night, which said:

"We may expect the usual array of 'confessions,' 'evidence' and so-called 'investigation' to bolster the current charges."

The Defense department thus apparently had anticipated today's broadcast by Radio Peiping that so-called extracts from the trial record showed that the Americans had "admitted having received specialist training in espionage and guerrilla warfare." The broadcast added that the two civilians confessed they had been trained as agents by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

DECEIT

The State Department note contended the Americans were in planes atttacked over either "the recognized combat zone in Korea or over international waters, in the course of the Chinese Communist aggression against Korea."

Under those circumstances, the note continued, the sentencing of the servicemen was "grossly contrary to the substance and spirit of all recognized international standards as to the protection of prisoners of war."

It added that the names of the two civilians had been "willfully and deceitfully" withheld by the Chinese Communists in Geneva last June from the list of American civilians then held in Chinese Communist jails.

Fly 2 Georgians To Polio Therapy

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 26 (AP)—Two young Georgians, a boy and a girl, were flown here today in an Air Force plane for hospital "weaning" from their iron lungs.

They are Frank Hibbett, 12, of Rockmart, and Gladys Gale Hines, 8, of Augusta, both suffering from polio. They are to undergo treatment at Vanderbilt Hospital which would gradually enable them to breathe normally again without use of the artificial respirator.

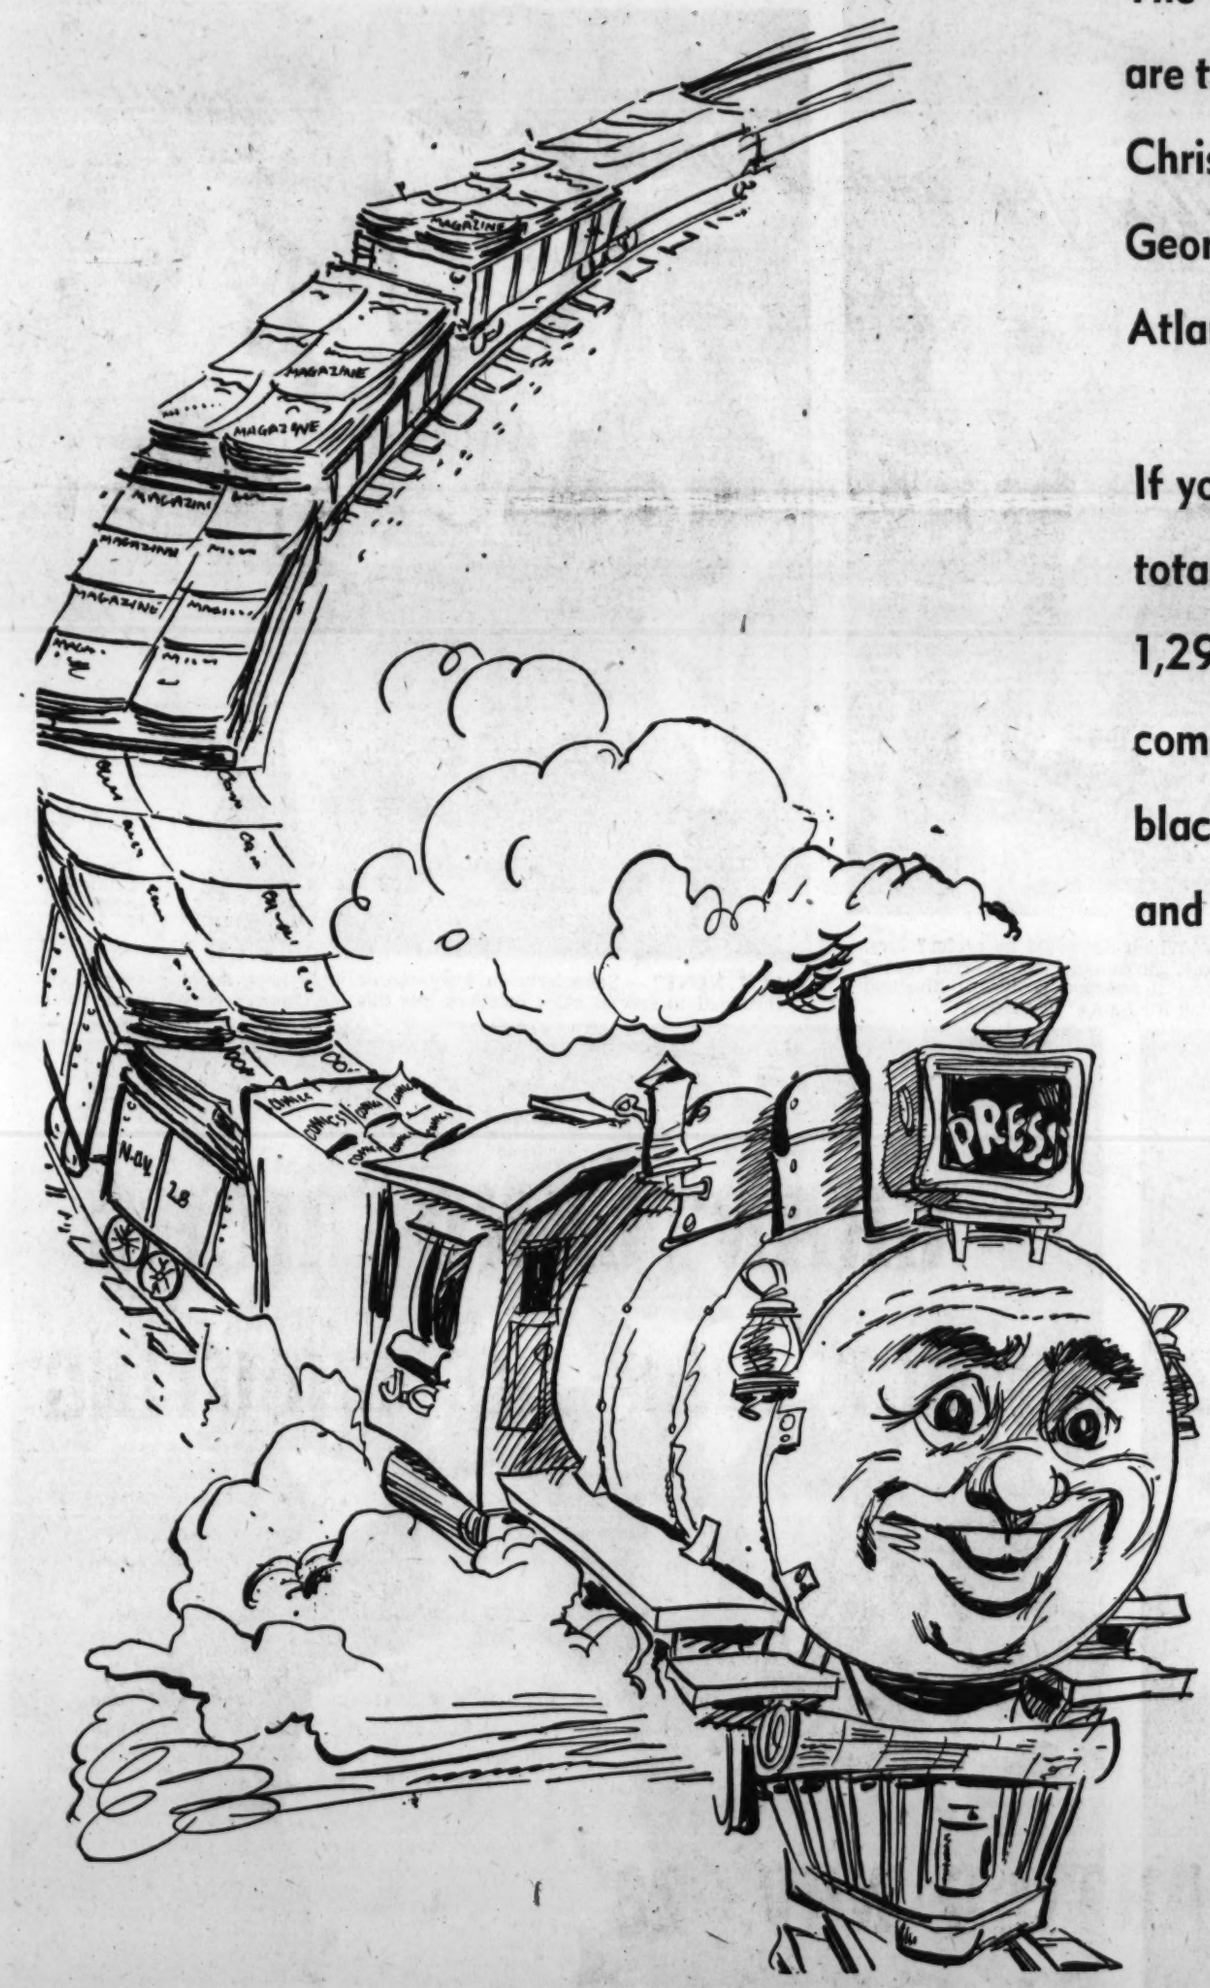
28 RAILROAD CARS REQUIRED TO HAUL NEXT SUNDAY'S 252-PAGE PAPER

Next Sunday's Atlanta Journal-Constitution consists of 11 sections and 252 pages. Two comic sections, the regular Sunday Journal-Constitution Magazine, two special roto sections and six black and white sections fill 28 freight cars with 188 tons of paper.



The mammoth edition means that Atlanta merchants are taking this opportunity to present the first of their Christmas gift ideas to more than 500,000 families in Georgia who subscribe to The Atlanta Journal and Atlanta Constitution.

If you figure all the news and advertising content you total up that over half a million families will get 1,292,000 pounds of reading matter. News columns, comics and other sections consume 2,875 gallons of black ink, 337 gallons of red, yellow and blue inks, and $84,732 worth of newsprint.

More than 200 editorial employees, 500 members of the mechanical departments and 5,000 other persons are needed to produce and distribute the 2½-pound edition to The Atlanta Journal and Constitution's more than 500,000 subscribers.

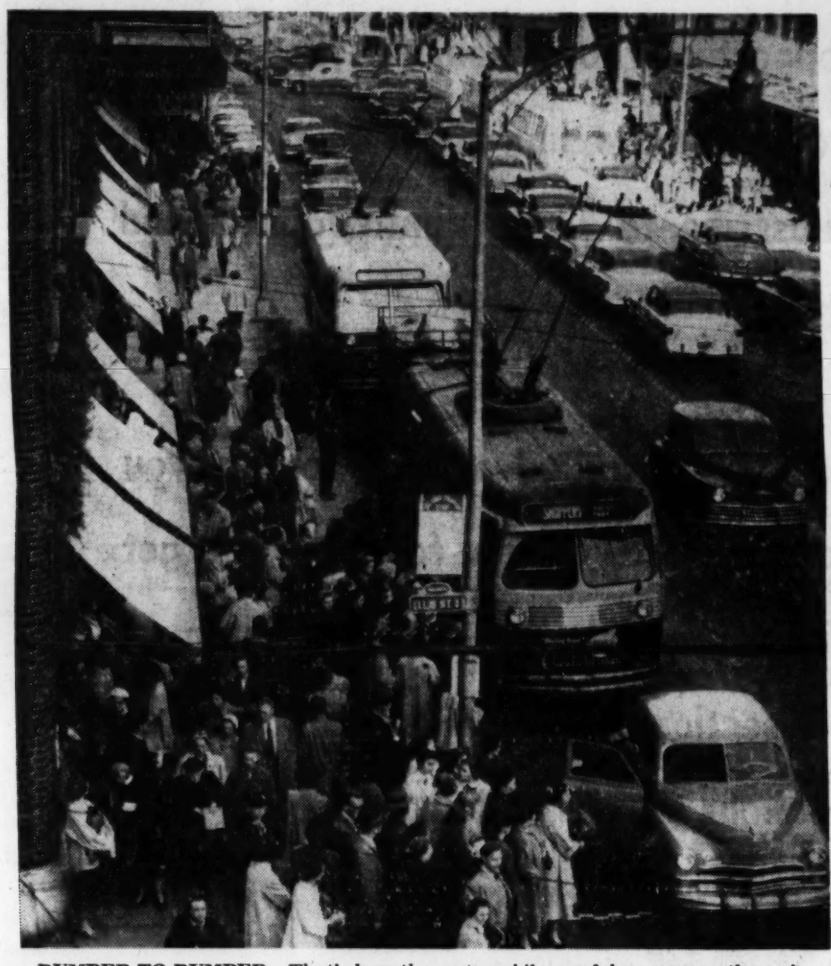
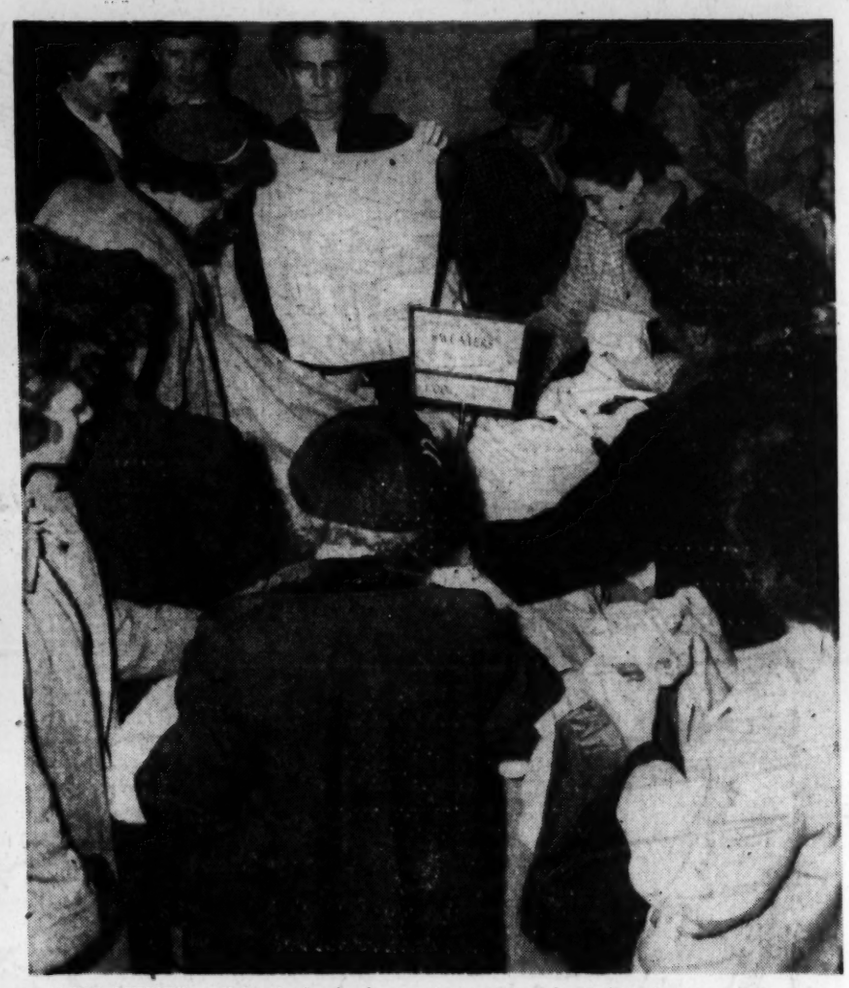
QUICK SERVICE—That's what the sign said, but the slogan was difficult to maintain as crowds packed and jammed stores.



BUMPER-TO-BUMPER—That's how the automobiles and buses were through a fabulous shopping day that tied up traffic—but made merchants happy.

GIFT DILEMMA—Which tie would he prefer? Mrs. Richard F. Muskey, surrounded by colorful cravat bargains, mulls over a seasonal problem. She and others were "buying for Santa" Thursday.



"I'M NEXT"—Salesclerks in busy stores were kept hopping as customers thronged to special sales counters like this. Merchants reported record volume.

MEN CAME TOO—A few intrepid male shoppers joined the traditional surge of women bargain-seekers. Sales here had "something for everybody," brought greatest turnout in Atlanta's history.

Sumter 4-H Boy Wins National Citizenship Title

By JACK GILCHRIST
Constitution Farm Editor

CHICAGO, Nov. 26—A former district winner in The Atlanta Constitution-sponsored 4-H Leadership Contest Friday was named national 4-H citizenship champion on the eve of the 33rd National 4-H Club Congress here.

Cephas Williamson, 17, of Rte. 2, Sumter County, a leader in Georgia 4-H Club work for the past seven years, Friday received a $300 college scholarship from Thomas E. Wilson of Wilson & Co., at a special luncheon in his honor.

Williamson arrived here Friday morning just prior to the announcement of his having been named a national 4-H Champion. His award includes the payment of all his expenses during the National Congress.

As national citizenship winner Williamson will join the national girl citizenship winner and two winners each in leadership and achievement for a conference with President Eisenhower during National 4-H Club Week next year. He will be the third Georgian calling on the President in three years. Billy Davis, Lowndes County, and Adrian Short, Harris County, were leadership and citizenship winners in 1952. Anne Wade of Thomas County was achievement winner last year.

Williamson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Williamson of the Thalean community of Sumter County. He was credited this past summer with leading his community 4-H club to first place in the annual 4-H community improvement contest and was so honored during the state Congress in Atlanta.

This is the second trip to the National 4-H Congress for the new citizenship champion. In 1952, at the age of 14, he was Georgia champion in the farm fencing project and was one of the youngest delegates to the National Congress that year.

Williamson's national championship climaxes a 4-H club career that began when "I was a weakling physically and my doctor offen told my parents I would never live to become grown." But Williamson says his parents never petted him. "They did not make a useless citizen of me. Instead, they taught me to give my best to my club, my community and my church."

His best includes a record of accomplishments second to none in Georgia 4-H club annuals and recognition here Friday as one of the outstanding members of one of the nation's biggest youth organizations.

The majority of Georgia's 36 National Congress delegates will arrive here Saturday morning to plunge immediately into a whirlpool of activity that includes breakfasts, luncheons, banquets, tours and other special events. The youngsters and their adult leaders will return to Atlanta on Saturday, Dec. 4.

School Board To Ponder Pupil Driver

By HERMAN HANCOCK

The Atlanta Board of Education will consider the problem of illegal operation of automobiles and motor scooters by high school students at a meeting 7:30 p.m. Dec. 14.

School Supt. Miss Ira Jarrell Friday said she will submit to the board a report by Police Chief Jenkins showing that a one-day check of white high schools this week showed 27 male students operated scooters or automobiles illegally.

Under existing state laws, children 15 years old may get a beginner's license to operate cars or scooters and at 16 may get regular licenses, although offenders are not subject to trial in city courts until they become 17 years old. Up until that time, they are under the jurisdiction of the Juvenile Court.

All those checked had not bothered to get licenses of any type, Jenkins said although 24 of them were 14 or 15 years old and three were 16.

Miss Jarrell praised the Police Department for helping "us in our efforts to protect the lives of Atlanta children." She said the board can make rules, but the help of parents as well as the police is mandatory to do the job. The board called on the police for help after a young student was killed in a traffic accident involving a scooter. Jenkins' report pointed out that 910 invitations have been issued youthful traffic violators to attend traffic school in the past six months, but that only 673 responded.

Douglas Wood, vice president of the Board of Aldermen, will act as mayor. Acting mayors are functioning as the city's chief executive while Mayor Hartsfield surveys Western Germany with a group of American officials. Hartsfield is expected back in Atlanta Dec. 8.

Leaves Pile Up

City Sanitary Engineer Stafford Graydon said Friday his division is approximately two weeks behind schedule in picking up fall leaves. He called on Atlantans to be patient.

'Blind Tiger' Charges Shut 3 Spots in Johnson

Superior Court Judge Rufus I. Stephens Friday ordered three Johnson County establishments temporarily closed and another partially closed pending a hearing on padlock petitions set for Dec. 2.

The hearing, originally scheduled for this weekend, was postponed at the request of defense attorneys. The petitions, filed by Sol. Gen. Bill Larsen, charge the places were operating as "blind tigers."

The three establishments ordered temporarily closed were listed as those of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Wilson, Wiliam Powell and John Sumner's, the latter of which was recently dynamited.

The place operated by Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Lee was ordered temporarily closed, with the exception of its cafe, living quarters and gasoline pumps.

2 Held in Slaying

T. P. Cawthon, 54, Franklin County farmer, and his son, Jerry, 14, Friday were held on murder charges in connection with the Nov. 6 rifle slaying of Billy Kelly, a scoutmaster, police said.

Sgt. Theron Aldridge of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation said the two were arrested on warrants sworn out by Andrew Kelly of Carnesville, a brother of the slain man. Aldridge said a rifle traced to the Cawthon residence was identified through the state laboratory as being the gun which fired the death bullet. He said the youth admitted being in the woods Nov. 6 where the scoutmaster was shot. . . . Judge Chester A. Byars of Upson Superior Court said Friday he will ignore a petition by a group of ministers that a grand jury investigate the reopening of padlocked night spots in Upson County. The jurist declared the petition, filed by members of the Committee on Morals and Law Enforcement of the Tri-Cities Ministerial Assn., is full of untruths. The ministers objected to the reopening of the Triangle Cafe and the Blue Light, two of 10 spots recently padlocked in Upson.

Teen-Type

German Student Shuns Generalization

By BETTY CARROLLTON

You can't generalize when talking about girls.

Not even Georgia girls.

So says Dieter Uhlenbrock of Cologne, Germany, an exchange student at Henry Grady High School.

Coeducation was a stranger to tall, handsome Dieter until he entered Grady this year. But now he's all for it!

"It's very agreeable," he says, "very comfortable and pleasant."

And he thinks Atlanta girls are really something.

"They're very good looking," he remarks, "and most of them are easy to talk with. Of course, I suppose you'll always find a few of the giddy kind. But you can't generalize about girls."

Likes Good Times

One of Grady's most popular seniors, Dieter attends many social functions.

"I try to make them all," he says.

Dieter speaks perfect English—even better than many native-born Georgians.

"I took English five years at home," he explains, "but the pronunciation is quite different here. The Southern drawl, you know."

Grady faculty members report that Dieter is an eager student. His favorite subject is human biology. He is a member of the Science Club, Beta Club and Junior Civitan. He is also a member of the student council.

At present, Dieter is making his home with the David Goldwassers, 955 Plymouth Rd.

"We've very fond of Dieter," Mrs. Goldwasser says.

The Goldwassers have two sons, Danny, who is a student at Grady and Jerry, who attends Georgia Tech.

Food here is quite different from his native fare Dieter discovered. But he's gained 25 pounds since coming here in July.

"I like Southern cooking," he says, "especially fried chicken and corn on the cob.

"And," he adds almost apologetically, "I like grits."

Hobo Invasion

Hapeville hoboes invaded downtown Atlanta this week as part of the annual hobo day for seniors at Hapeville High School. Decked out in patched pants, sloppy hats, burnt-cork makeup and with bundles slung over their shoulders, students forgot the call of books in answer to the call of the road. They lunched—hobo fashion—in Plaza Park. Fare included pork and beans, canned meat and cold biscuits.

Helen Scarborough has been elected editor of the annual at Sylvan High. Her staff includes Michael Martin, associate editor; Pat Korn, business manager. The group is at work on the 1954-55 edition of "Golden Memories," the school yearbook.

The bank board at Sylvan has elected the following officers: Andy Calloway, president; Deanna Floyd, vice president; Elizabeth Arnold, cashier, and Corinne Cook, assistant cashier.

The French Club at Southwest DeKalb High, sponsored by Mrs. J. B. Huckabee, has elected Marianne Duckett president. Other officers include Malone Dodson, vice president; Barbara Hall, secretary, and Sara Cole, treasurer.

Olin "Sis" Clark has been chosen president of the senior class at Southwest. Malone Dodson is vice president; Bettie Jo Wilson, secretary, and Beverly Meers, treasurer.

Officers of the Library Club at Southwest DeKalb include Mary Irvin, president; Caroline Boroughs, vice president, and Norma Hutcheson, treasurer.

"Smitty" and "Sue," king and queen of CCC—cleanliness, courtesy and cooperation—will reign over festivities of the formal Christmas dance of the Future Homemakers of America at Hoke Smith High School. The dance will be held at the school gymnasium Dec. 10.

FUNNY THING

It's a funny thing
But, as we grow older,
The summers are warmer,
The winters get colder,
The stair steps are steeper,
Newsprint is littler,
Armchairs seem deeper,
And our bones are brittler.

We can't understand it,
But it's true all the same,
And we just wish we knew
Where to place all the blame!

Contract Play Opens Saturday

By CHARLES H. GOREN

More than 2,000 of the world's leading bridge players streamed into Atlanta Friday as the city played host for the first time to a national tournament of the American Contract Bridge League.

Mrs. Wagar

All previous attendance records are expected to fall by the wayside at the Atlanta Biltmore during the nine-day competition, the 28th annual winter tourney of the ACBL. Seven national championship events and 17 special trophy contests are on the crowded calendar.

Despite the intensive schedule of play, a special committee of the Atlanta unit of the ACBL, headed by Mrs. Margaret Wagar, a veteran in national competition, has arranged a full program of social and recreational events to entertain the visiting experts.

Tourament officials are confident the participation records set at Dallas last year, when 39 states and 381 cities were represented, will be shattered by the time the last hand is played. Entries have been received this year from Canadian, Mexican and West Indian experts, as well as from the top United States players.

The tournament will get under way Saturday with the American Cancer Society pair event scheduled Saturday night. Proceeds of this event will go to that organization.

The open individual will be played in two sessions Saturday. Mrs. M. R. McCrackin of Albuquerque, N.M., won this event last year at Dallas.

The open teams will be contested in four afternoon sessions Monday through Thursday for the trophy now held by B. Jay Becker, Sam Stayman and George Rapee, all of New York and John R. Crawford, Philadelphia.

The master-mixed pairs will take place Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. It was won last year by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hodge, of Abilene, Tex.

Two-session team championships will be played Thursday and Friday nights, the women's and men's teams-of-four. Winners of the women's teams last year were Mrs. Vera Glick of Miami, Mrs. Lucille Schwarz of Cleveland and Mrs. Harold Feldstein and Mrs. Leonard Goldstein, both of Cincinnati. Hodge picked up a second win last year in the men's teams. His teammates were John Gerber, Ben Fain and Harold Rockaway, all of Houston, and George Heath of Dallas.

Rockaway was also a double winner last year, placing first in the open pairs, the main event on the nine-day program. His partner was Byron Greenberg of Tulsa, Okla. The open pairs will be played in four sessions on Saturday and Sunday.

The non-master pairs, the final event on the nine-day program, will be played in two sessions on Sunday. Roger Sarfaty and Steve Greenberg, both of Oklahoma City, placed first last year.

Among the Atlanta members assisting Mrs. Wagar, are Henry Chanin, John Acbar Darsey, Mrs. Claire Fox, Roy Hill, J. W. Hirsch, Andrew A. Massie, Mrs. J. B. McConnell, Nelson G. Rowe, Harry Siegel and Sidney M. Smith.

Ollie Reeves

A Rhyme a Day

(Dedicated to the traffic-officer who finally caught me.)

I did it, I'm ashamed to say . . . I "ran a traffic-light" one day . . . a traffic-cop was standing there . . . and handed me his "bill-of-fare" . . . and since I am a courteous soul . . . I did not lose my self-control . . . but turned to him and softly said . . . "I did not know the light was red."

And you know what he said to me? . . . "Well, it was there for you to see . . . you must be blinder than a bat . . . to miss a light as red as that" . . . and as we stood awhile and talked . . . just up the street a hoodlum walked . . . into a store and shoved a gat . . . right underneath a clerk's cravat . . . and robbed the place, at pistol-point . . . I mean, he really cleaned the joint.

Well, I got fined for my mistake . . . but what he did with all this "take" . . . I do not know, nor do I care . . . but I believe it isn't fair . . . to let them big crooks get away . . . and leave us little crooks to pay.

Man Who Posed As Leland Harvey Flees City Farm

Louie Propes, 35, who posed as Leland Harvey, reformed prison escape artist in a tangle with police here a week ago, has escaped from the city prison farm, records showed.

Propes was given a 30-day sentence following the arrest a week ago. He convinced several officers and one investigator from the pardon and parole board that he was Harvey.

In court Propes said he didn't know why he had posed as Harvey and added: "I got drunk in New Orleans once and told them I was an FBI man."

Thousands Expected At Baptist 'M' Night

By LAURA BARRE

Some 6,000 people are expected to attend the 12th annual "M" night program of the Atlanta Baptist Assn.'s Baptist Training Union at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 6 at the Municipal Auditorium.

"M" night was begun in Atlanta in 1942 by Training Union Leader Calvin L. Pratt. The "M" stands for mobilization—Pratt reasoned that since everything else was being mobilized in 1942, church organizations would do well to "get in the swim."

Purposes of the program are to launch the Training Union schedule for the coming year and to enlist church members in a weekly program of "training in church membership."

Guest speaker for the evening will be Dr. C. Oscar Johnson of St. Louis, Mo., a former president of the Baptist World Alliance.

Members of the Atlanta Assn.'s "M" night committee are Randy Dodd, Royce Withers, Mrs. Henry C. Rogers, L. W. deJarnette, Mrs. W. S. Gilmer, Dr. Paul McCommon and Pratt.

Similar "M" night programs are planned that evening in each of 92 other Baptist associations in Georgia.

One association, the Lawrenceville Assn., will have its program Monday evening at Decatur First Baptist Church. The speaker will be the Rev. Henry C. Rogers of Atlanta. Attendance goal is 1,500.

The choir of the Baptist Tabernacle has scheduled a repeat performance of its dramatization of Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah" at 8:15 p.m. Monday.

Baptists Sign For DeKalb Building Site

The Clairmont-LaVista Baptist Chapel has signed a sales contract for the purchase of a three and one-half acre building site at the northeast corner of the intersection of Clairmont road and North Druid Hills road, NE.

Final negotiations are subject to zoning of the property for church construction by the DeKalb County Zoning Commission. The commission is expected to act on the matter during December, Guy W. Rutland, chairman of the chapel's property committee, said.

Purchase price of the property is $15,000.

The chapel is sponsored by Decatur First Baptist Church and the Missions Committee of the Atlanta Baptist Assn. At present all services are being held in the W. D. Thompson School.

Members of the chapel property committee, in addition to Rutland, are Joe Bodenhamer, Jim Brooks, C. C. Hightower, James McGuire, P. C. Woodall and the chapel pastor, the Rev. Emmett O. Floyd.

Wheat, Corn Push Higher

CHICAGO, Nov. 26 (AP)—Firmness in wheat and corn featured dealings in grains in the one-way session sandwiched between the Thanksgiving holiday and the weekend on the Board of Trade today.

While these two major cereals pushed their way upward, the rest of the market became highly irregular. Gains were posted everywhere in early dealings. Later, oats and soybeans fell back to around the previous close while rye dropped under Wednesday's finish.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅞ higher, corn ⅝-1⅝ higher, oats 1 cent lower to ½ higher, rye 1 to 1¾ lower, soybeans ¾ lower to ¼ higher and lard 20 cents lower to 2 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Vigorous Market Advances $1 to $5

Montgomery Ward Jumps After Boosting Dividends

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP)—A headlong advance in the stock market today carried prices up strongly toward the old historic peaks of 1929.

Today's buoyant rise was the most vigorous since Veterans Day. Gains went to between 1 and 3 points in many cases, and they pushed on out from there to around 5 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.20 at $147.50. It was ahead 40 cents Wednesday, and on Veterans Day it gained $1.50.

The average now stands at the highest point since Oct. 11, 1929, when it was $147.90. The historic high for the average occurred on Sept. 3, 1929, when it reached $157.70.

Oils, steels and railroads were in heavy demand today. Chemicals were strong. A great number of individual issues joined the rise with explosive gains.

KEEPS ON GOING

The market started higher and kept right on going up with the best prices found when the final bell rang to close the stock exchange for the day.

Montgomery Ward made a sensational showing after directors boosted the regular dividend to a $3 annual basis from $2 and increased the year-end extra to $1.75 from $1.50.

The stock sold at 73 up ½, and then trading was halted while members and governors of the New York Stock Exchange sought to bring clamoring buyers and shy sellers together at a price.

It took more than hour and a quarter to do that, and just before the bell the stock reopened on a block of 20,000 shares up 3½ at 76. Afterward it was bid at 75¾ and offered for sale at 76⅛.

HEAVY GAINERS

The Associated Press 60-stock average in advancing $1.20 at $147.50 was pushed up by new highs in its three components—industrials up $1.90 at $202.30, railroads up $1.10 at $112.50, and utilities up 10 cents at $66.40.

Among heavy gainers were Zenith Radio up 4⅞ at 93⅞, Union Pacific up 3¾ at 150, Standard Oil (NJ) up 2¾ at 107⅝, Du Pont 3⅜ at 158, Bethlehem Steel up 2¼ at 97, Georgia-Pacific Plywood up 2⅜ at 27, Minneapolis Honeywell up 4 at 109, U.S. Rubber 1½, Kennecott Copper 1⅞, Air Reduction 1¼, Allied Chemical 1¼, Olin-Mathieson Chemical 1⅝, Westinghouse Electric 1, Santa Fe Railroad 2⅜, Seaboard Railroad 1⅜ and Amerada Petroleum 4 at 192.

Sugar Futures

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP)—World sugar futures turned active and higher today. Buying was influenced by news that the International Sugar Council has decided to continue setting export quotas initially in 1955 at 20 per cent under the basic export allotments. The council estimated world free sugar marketings for 1955 at 4,400,000 metric tons and set the initial 1955 export quota at 3,700,000 tons. Dealers noted that European beet sugar crop is expected to be 1,500,000 tons lower than the recent bumper crop which could leave room for improvement in the world market next year. Domestic sugar futures were dull as traders awaited Washington action on the sugar quota muddle, affecting the quota supply situation for the balance of this year. Domestic raws for late December delivery were available at 6.15 cents a pound delivered and 5.90 cents for January arrival. Refiners were on the sidelines. World raws were quoted at about 3.25 cents a pound f.o.b. Cuba. Refined demand was good.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP)—Trading in cotton textiles was at slow pace Friday. The popular 80 square print cloth at 18½ cents a yard on average makes, but good qualities brought 18¾ cents. Further interest developed in soft-filled sheetings, with sales made for the first quarter of next year. Dealers also noted an improvement in heavy industrial goods, such as ducks and wide drills.

The wool goods market lacked feature, with mills still in preparation of fall lines in showing to buyers. There were no Autralian wool auctions today, but the futures markets here and abroad were higher, reflecting rising wool prices in world markets this week.

In rayon goods converters interest was limited today. However, mills were comfortably sold up on numerous constructions well into the first quarter of next year and there was no pressure of goods on the market.

DeKalb's Mike Lynch Dies; Fire Chief Native of Ireland

A son of old Ireland and a true follower of St. Patrick, DeKalb Fire Chief Mike Lynch is dead at 60.

He died Friday morning in Georgia Baptist Hospital.

Chief Lynch, born in Leitrim County, Ireland, was a familiar sight in his high silk hat, green tie, frock tailed coat and striped trousers, carrying a shillelagh, as he led the annual St. Patrick's Day parade from 1946 to 1953.

He came to this country at the age of 13 and first became a fireman at 21 in Chattanooga, Tenn. He moved to DeKalb County in 1940 and served as a fireman at the Druid Hills station before being made chief in 1949.

The chief—Martin Joseph Lynch, in full—took over the St. Patrick's Day celebration in 1946 when Maury Mable became too ill to continue the job he had performed for 48 years. Lynch himself was ill for this year's festivities, and his 13-year-old grandson Joe Herbermann took over.

Mr. Lynch, who lived in Decatur at 118 Barry St., was a member of St. Thomas More Catholic Church, the Georgia Firemen's Assn., and the Harold Byrd post of the American Legion. He served in the "Fighting 69th" during World War I.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the St. Thomas More Church. The Rev. Father Thomas I. Sheehan will officiate. Burial will be held at 3 p.m. Monday in the National Cemetery, Marietta.

A. Cooper, H. L. Rogers, J. H. Hancock, Dr. Stacy Jones, Leon O'Neal, Charlie Marbut and members of the DeKalb County Fire Department.

The Rosary was said at 8 p.m. Friday in Trinity Chapel.

Surviving are Lynch's wife; a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Herbermann of Decatur; a brother, James Lynch of Leitrim County, Ireland; two sisters, Mrs. Joe Fitzpatrick and Miss Ann Lynch, both of Cleveland, Ohio; and five grandchildren.
